Forcing U.S. to Reconsider

By EDWARD COWAN Special to The New York Times

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Unexpected opposition by the State of California to the delivery by tankers of Alaskan oil to a terminal near Los Angeles has forced Washington to reconsider basic assumptions concerning the long-awaited Alaska

Environmental issues and also economic fundamentals, such as a projected West Coast oil surplus, have led Washington to consider whether United States oil from Alaska'a Prudhoe Bay should be sent to Japan, rather than to California, or perhaps shipped via a permanent aupply route through the Panama Canal to American refineries on the Gulf of Mexico and the East Coast,

California's position has stunned Wasbington inasmuch as there was no hint of it in the long bitter debate that preceded approval by Congress three years ago of the Alaska pipeline, a project the Government has counted on to diminish American dependence on

The issue concerns the so-called West Coast "surplus," that fraction of the North Slope oil, now apparently more than half, that could not be used by West Coast refineries.

The Standard Oil Company (Ohio). which has the largest single interest in Prudhoe Bay's proven reserves of 9.6 billion barrels, wants to onload the oil at Long Beach, Calif., for pipeline relay to Texas and then onto refineries on the Gulf Coast and in the Middle West.

The Federal Energy Administration, although officially uncommitted, leans toward the Sohio proposal. California, however, contends that unloading 1.2 million barrels a day in 1977 and up to 1.6 million by 1980 could add hydrocarbons to In the lobby of a Manhattan public the already dirty air of southern Cali-

Palme's Resignation Is Accepted; Decisive Defeat Impresses Swedes

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 20-Prime Minister Olof Palme's Social Democratic Cabinet resigned tonight after a decisive generalelection defeat that ended more than four . decades of his party's rule in Sweden. Mr. Palme, in a letter of resignation delivered to the Speaker of Parliament, Henry Allard, said: "I hereby request to be dismissed from the position as Prime Minister" Mr. Allard, accepting the resignation, asked the outgoing Cabinet to remain as a caretaker administration 'until a new Government has taken office." The probable new Prime Minister, 50-year-old Thorbjorn Falldin, the leader of the Center Party, is due to take over after Parliament reassembles on Oct. 4. Because it was the first time in 44 years thet a non-Socialist coalition had attained power in Sweden, the bureaucracy and government machinery seemed jolted by the defeat of the Social Democrats. Unofficial results gave the non-Socialist bloc 180 seats in Parliament against 169 for the Social Democrats and the Communists, who are unofficial partners in Parliament with Mr. Palme's party. The non-Socialist bloc includes the Center, Liberal and Moderate, or Conservative, Partles. Mr. Palme, who took office in 1969 of local memorial meetings held at the same time as the one in Peking.

A provincial radio broadcast monitored here, for example, said that the First Secretary of Szechwan, Chao Tzu-yang, and the commander of the Szechwan Military District, Liu Hsing-yuan, who had been mentioned as having gone to Peking last week, led ceremonies in Chengtu, the Szechwan capital.

According to Hsinhua, the Chinese press agency, Mr. Hua has sent a message to North Korea's President, Kim Il Sung, expressing "deep condolences" on the death today of Vice Presideot Choi Yoog Kun. All three men have died in the past year.

There was no further word on what happened to the body of Mao Tse-tung. His remains were last seen oo Friday in a large glass coffin in the Great Hall of the People in Peking. Most Chinese leaders in the past have been cremated, but there hes been speculation that Mao's body may be embalmed and preserved for display as the Russians did with Lenin and the Vietnamese with Ho Chi Minh.

Seating in the General Assembly hall is a more complex problem. During the summer, workers added a new bank of tables down in front, right under the rostrum. Then early last month, at a staff meeting, Secretary General Kurt Waldbeim reached into a small lacquer hox and extracted at random a plastic dominn bearing one country's name. It was Indonesia.

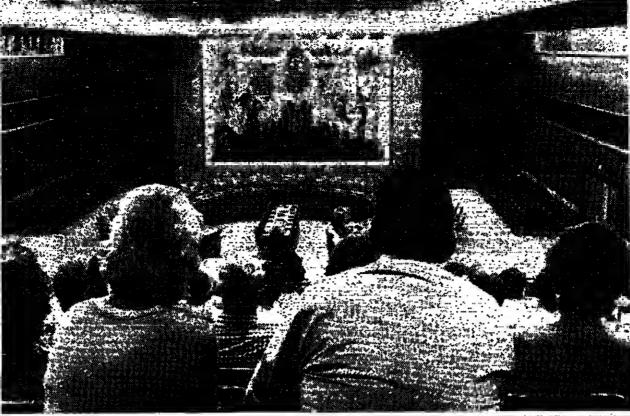

That chosen country is assigned a place in the first row to the immediate right of the presiding officer; then all other members, in subsequent alphahetical order, are arrayed around tha room. Any government that doesn't like its place can always hope to be the one drawn out of the box next year.

"I have often tried to imagina how this organization must look to the out-side world," said Secretary General Waldbeim as he met a group of interna-tional students today—and that musing led him into some uncharacteristically blunt talk about the way business is conducted here.

"Some of the terminology we use "Some of the terminology we use has become an convoluted, so overladen with cliche and nuance, that it bas become unintelligible—in any language—to the ordinary person. Circumlocution should not become a general substitute for clear thinking, meaningful communication, or action."

Warming up, the Secretary General hemoaned the volume of documentation produced at the United Nations. "A source of despair." he called it, and probably not a single delegation would disagree. Last year, no fewer than 10,590 pages of official documents, reports and draft resolutions were cifculated before the Assembly session even began.

"We tend to conduct our affairs as if time were unlimited," Mr. Waldheim said, and, again, the statistics hear him nut. At last autumn's General Assem-bly, 534 meetings—general and com-mittees—were held during the threemonth session, and someone calculated that 223 hours of work time was lost simply through the United Nations habit of starting almost every meeting late.

The singans used today were "Down with the cost of living" and "An end to repression by the bourgeois government," with no reference to the United States' military and civilian presence in the Canal Zone.

Today's disturbances began when a march of 500 to 1,000 students was prewarch of 500 to 1,000 students was prevented from reaching the downtown area of Panama City. Many students then retreated in the university, and, after soldiers and police withdrew in mid-afternoon, they blocked the road beside the university and hurned an official car that was parked nearby.

Johannesburg News and Notes: Vorster Is Hopeful Over Rho

By JOHN F. BURNS

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 20—Prime Minister John Vorster said today that the proposals put to Prime Minister Ian D. Smith of Rhodesia by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had laid the basis for a solution to the Rhodesian crisis, which formed the major topic at weekend talks between the three men in Pretoria.

"I am prepared to say that if both sides in the Rhodesian dispute work together in good faith on the basis of the proposals put forward, it can lead to a solution of the Rhodesian prob-lem," the Prime Minister told the South African Press Association.

Mr. Vorster, making his first public announcement on the talks, denied that South Africa had put pressure on Rhodesia, which relies on South Africa for its supplies, to accede to the Kissinger plan. He added: "I am not aware that any pressure was likewise put on Mr. Smith and his colleagues by Mr. Kiss-

Mr. Vorster, who has hailed his talks with Mr. Kissinger as the end of South Africa's diplomatic isolation from the West, saw to it that no effort was spared to impress the Americans. But driving out of the base, the Secretary of State passed what military public relations officials described as a "quarter guard" of black soldiers carrying automatic rifles, members of one of the first black units in the South African Defense Force to be trained for a combat role.

The military spokesman said that it, was standard for the entries to the base to be guarded by soldiers, and the fact that the soldiers were black was said to be coincidence and not a special move for Mr. Kissinger's benefit.

His force, acting under special laws that exempt it from scrutiny or review by Parliament or the courts, has detained more than 850 people without trial since the black upheaval began three months ago. The detentions, mostly of blacks, have been bitterly criticized by opponents of aparticid, who see them as an attempt to eliminate all black leaders who do not cronnate all black leaders who do not cooperate with the Government.

One of the most difficult tasks facing the United States Embassy here was the United States Embassy here was the choice of black leaders invited to meet Mr. Kissinger on Safurday. The list appeared to have been limited to leaders considered legitimate by the Government, Most of the nine blacks who participated, while critical of apar-theld, function within Governmentcreated institutions. An exception was Percy Qohoza, editor of The World, a newspaper for blacks.

In an editorial the day Mr. Kissinger arrived, Mr. Coboza warned that Mr. Kissinger would confirm young blacks' suspicious that the United States was siding with South Africa unless he in-

SYRIA CHARGES SADAT BALKS BEIRUT PEACE

Ruling Party's Newspaper Holds Him Responsible for Failure of New Effort for Resolution 1

By JAMES F. CLARITY

DAMASCUS, Syria, Sept. 20—Syria charged today that President Anwar el-Sadat of Egypt was personally responsi-ble for the failure of new efforts toward a cease-fiore and settlement of the crisis in Lebanon.

The Syrian attack, in an editorial in Al Baath, the publication of the ruling Baath Party, headed by President Hafez al-Assad, was one of the sharpest attacks on Mr. Sadat issued in Damascus in recent weeks since this country and Egypt agreed formally in June to stop castigat-agreed formally in June to stop castigating each other in public.

Mr. Sadat, the editorial, bore the responsibility for the collapse of talks last Friday and yesterday at Chtaura, Lebanon, where the crisis was discussed by Elias Sarkis, the Lebanese President-elect. Yasir Arafat of the Palestine Libveration Oganization and Vice Air Marshai Naji Jamil President Assad's confidant and Deputy Defense Minister, and Hassan Sabri el-Kholy, the Arab League's mediator.

New Syrian Drive Hinted

Sources close to Marshal Jamil said that the collapse of the Chtaura parley increased the likelibood of additional Syrian military action in Lebanon. There was some suggestion in military circles here that any new Syrian drive to dislodge Palestinian and leftist Moslem forces from the mountains east of Beirut might start before the December snows.

New talks are tentatively set for Friday in Beirut among the parties that failed to reach a settlement at Chtaura. Some officials io Damascus have suggested that Syria might refuse to attend, but this could not be confirmed tonight.

Continuation or increasing of the fighting, it continued, would achieve for Mr. Sadat a number of major goals—among them realization of the next step of the Sinai disengagement agreement with Israel, signed a year ago.

South Africa Cited For Harsh Methods In Curbing Unrest

JOHANNESBURG, Sept. 20—The Christian Institute of Southern Africa suggested in a report made public tonight that moves by the Government since the outbreak of unrest in the black community three months ago had taken the country a significant step further toward becoming a police state.

"The facts presented in this report tend to justify rather than mitigate the serious question of whether South Africa is now perhaps an "incomplete" police state, if in fact not a police state in the full sense of the word," the 42-page report said, introducing a compilation of statistics on political detentions and trials. The Government has in the past vigorously rejected such charges, pointing to the existence of a parliamentary opposition, a stridently critical press and an independent judiciary. ### Victor Over Swedish Socialists

Thorbjorn Falldin

By BERNARD WEINRAUB

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 20—His hands are gnarled and blistered, his suits baggy, he speaks in a murmur, gripping a pipe and slouching restlessly in a chair. In the midst of a noisy oews conference he seems a curiously brooding politician. Even this morning in the aftermath of a stunning triumph over the Social Democratic Party, News Thorbjorn Falldin spoke sciemly and nervously, bit-sclemly and nervously, biting his lip and perspiring beavily as he answered questions about the formation of a new government in Sweden—the first non-Socialist government in 44 years.

"Now we are going to lead Sweden award decentralization." step by step toward decentralization." said the 54-year-old Center Party leader, the head of a three-party coalition that defeated the Socialists. "We are going to break the power concentration. It will not bappen overnight, but I promise that our supporters will not have ise that our supporters will not have to wait long before noticing results." By all accounts Mr. Falldin's central issue, the outgoing Government's plan to build nuclear power plants as a means of reducing Swedish dependence on imported oil, proved pivotal among younger voters alarmed over potential radioactive hazards.

The Victory Was Striking

Coupled with other issues—what is viewed as the arrogance and smugness of the proliferating bureacracy, the lon-gevity of Social Democratic control, high taxes, the overconcentration of state power, the neglect of the country-side in favor of the cities—Mr. Falldin and his coalition partners in the Liberal and Moderate Parties scored a striking and Moderate Parties scoted a scholing victory.

Mr. Falldio, who is to be formally designated Prime Minister after Parliament opens next mooth, offers a vivid contrast to the man he is succeeding. Olof Paime, leader of the Socialists—a factor that undoubtedly helped him in the campaign. Mr. Palme is tough, shrewd sometimes abrasive and so eleshrewd, sometimes abrasive and to ele-gant theoretician; Mr. Falldin exudes common sense and honesty.

a Social Democratic politician com-mented "He's rural Sweden, He's what people think of as typically Swedish. man, an bonest man."

On the other band, a promineot So-On the other band, a promined So-clal Democratic, figure said angrily: "He's without experience, without imagination, without intelligence. He knows nothing of foreign affairs. He can't speak English. A disaster!" Thorbjorn Falldin—the surname is pronounced fell-dean—was born on April 24, 1926, in Hogsjo, in corthern Sweden. His family were farmers, and

Sweden. His family were farmers, and Mr. Falldin now lives with his wife and three children on a hilltop farm near his birthplace; they raise sheep, grow potatoes and cut timber. Although be maintains a one-room apartment in Stockholm, he spends every weekend and holiday on his farm, which consists of 25 acres of field and 590 acres of forest.

Completing formal schooling at age 19, Mr. Falldin became active in agrarian politics in his early twenties. He was elected to Parliament in 1958, lost his seat by 11 votes in 1964 and rerained it in 1967. He became aims chair. gained it in 1967. He became vice chairman of the Center Party in 1969 and was named party leader two years

Mr. Falldin's opposition to Mr. Palme's ambitious nuclear-power program developed when a fellow legislator introduced bim to the 1970 Swedish Nobel laureate in physics, Hannes Alfven. Mr. Falldin said that the physicist told him of growing skepticism among scientists about the possibility of mastering the disposal of nuclear wastering the disposal of nuclear waster. tering the disposal of nuclear waste and preventing the sabotage of power stations. Since then Mr. Falldio has

It is now believed that a turning point In the campaign came during a natioowide television debate between Mr. Palme and Mr. Faildin, who raised the nuclear issue and spoke with rare emotion when it

"Olof Palme," he said, "can you stand here this evening oo this platform and guarantee that you give to the generation of today, to coming generations, a better society when you want to give them a nuclear power society? Can you give this guarantee here this evening?" Mt. Palme said nothing.

THAILAND EX-LEADER NOW BEGS AS MONK

EANGKOK, Thailand, Sept. 20 (AP)— Thancm Kitikachorn, front man for the military dictatorship ousted in 1973, walked the streets of Bangkok today, with shaved head, wearing the saffron robes of a Buddhist monk and begging door to door for his food.

The 66-year-old former Prime Minisand field mars day from exile in Singapore to enter a Buddhist monastery. Government leaders indicated that he might be allowed to stay unless his presence set off violent protests.

Several members of Parliament sug-gested that he be seet to live in a Thai Buddhist temple in India, Student and labor leaders called for his deportation or trial on charges of ordering the army. to shoot during the 1973 uprising, in which 72 civilians were killed.

The initial reaction was muted compared with that following the secret return last month of Mr. Thanon's right-hand man, Praphas Charusathien, who was sent back into exile after vio-lent demonstrations.

Offices at a Standstill

Government offices were at e virtual standstill "Whichever office I go to, I see secretaries crying," said a Labor Ministry official. Appointments with civil servants in the Finance and Education Ministries were abruptly canceled today, and numerous workers were plainly worried about their jobs.

"Finally, floady, finally" said an editorial in the Expressen, a Liberal Party newspaper. "One-party domination has been broken. The victor is Swedish democracy."

The Social Democratic afternoon news-The Social Democratic afternoon newspaper, Aftonbladet, indicated that the voters believed the party had become flabby and smug. "The party has come to be seen as an instrument of bureaucracy," the newspaper said. "This image has undoubtedly frightened off many young that would overstrengthen the powers of trade unions and alter the relatively peaceful and profitable relationship between unions and employers.

Under the new Government, ties with the United States are expected to improve. American relations with Sweden plunged in December, 1972, when Mr. Palme compared the bombings of North Vietnam to Nazi massacres. The United States asked Sweden not to send a new ambassador to Washington, and the State Department ordered the acting American Ambassador to Stockholm, J. C. Guthrie, who was on vacation, not to return to Sweden. The unusually strong diplomatic move reportedly sting Mr. Palme.

It took more than a year before President Nixon appointed an Ambassador, Robert Strause-Hupe, who now is Ambassador to NATO.

Democrats' defeat to Mr. Faildin's strenuous campaign against Government plans to make Sweden the world's biggest per capita consumer of nuclear energy. Mr. Falldin said the plan to build 13 nuclear reactors by 1985 was dangerous and wasteful.

Appealed to the Young

Analysts in the Social Democratic Party said Mr. Falidin's campaign appealed especially to the 480,000 young voters casting ballots for the first time since the imum voting age was lowered from Another key issue, pressed by the Liberal and Moderate Parties, was a proposal for the introduction of employee investment funds. The plan called for companies to convert 20 percent of their profits into company shares and place them in worker funds, enabling unions eventually to control a large section of Swedish industry. The plan was supported by the Swedish Trade Union Confederation, which is closely linked to the

Education and Weifare said that fewer than 5,000 refugees still received special cash grants and that number is expected to shrink by 1,500 persons a year during the next two years.

Until the program is phased out, the panel said, the refugee program's head-quarters should be moved from Miami to Weshington to "Supressession".

to Washington to "improve management and clarify policy direction."

Established in Feoruary 1961, the Cuban Refugee Program has spent $1.1 billion for cash, medical and social services. Officials said 465,000 refugees registered under the program and 300,000 refug were given resettlement aid.

Slowed to a Trickle

This year the Government spent $85 million on the program, of which $70 mil lion for aid to schools in Dade County Fla., where an estimated 465,000 refugees reside, and $2.3 million for administrative reside, and $2.3 million for administrative and miscellaneous expenses.

The report sald the flood of refugees had slowed to a trickle. Last July, only 189 persons registered, most of whom came had come from Cuba to the United States through other countries. The single biggest year of the program was in 1972, when 90,000 refugees were receiving cash assistance.

The report said that more refugees were applying for citizenship, which rendered them fieligible for special refugee assist-cial services to Federal programs cover ing all low-income persons, phase out the special refugee student loan program and work out a new arrangement to compen-sate Dade County for educating refugee children. Robert HEW's Social and Rehabilitation Serv ice, said he would take no action on the recommendations until he had received comments from Florida, Dade County and Ricardo Nunez, the director of the Cuban Refugee Program.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (UPI)—Agri-culture Secretary Earl I. Butz amounced today an increase of i cent a gallon in Government milk supports, effective Oct. 1, but predicted it would have only "min-imal" impact on consumer prices. Retail prices for most dairy products now are above the next support levels. Dr. Batz above the new support levels, Dr. Batz said in a statement.

He said the support floor for manufac-turing-grade milk, now $8.13 per hundred pounds, would be raised to $8.26 Oct. I, the beginning of the third quarter of the 1876-77 dairy marketing year. Since a gallon of milk weighs 8.6 pounds, the rise of 13 cents per hundred pounds amounts to 11 cents a sallon

Irving, a Loser on Hughes Book, Wins Case With Own Legal Brief

By ROY R. SILVER.

WESTBURY, L.I., SEPT. 20—Clifford Irving, who served 17 months in a Federal prison for conspiracy and fraud in connection with his bogus book about Howard Hughes, the late hillionaire, has had more success as a "lawyer" than ha did as a biographer.

The 45-year-old author acted as his own defense attorney five months ago on a Government charge of having "knowingly and fraudulently" concealed income in a financial statement to the Internal-Revenue Service after.

the winner of the case today, with the bankruptcy court judge dismissing the Government's civil complaint.

The Department of Justice, acting on behalf of the I.R.S., had asked the court to direct that Mr. Irving pay $127,000 in back taxes for the $765,000 advance
he received from the McGraw-Hill publishing company or that a general dislishing company or that a general dis-charge of all his liabilities be denied

No Intentional Omission

No Intentional Omission

In a -14-page decision made public today after a three-day civil trial last. April, Judge William J. Rudin ruled that Mr. Irving "did not intentionally omit" any reference to $44,000 that he received in connection with a film that had been made from his book "Fake." based on the life of an alleged art forg-

Judge Rudin found that the financial statement, written in the Federal pentitentiary in Danbury, Conn., on Sept. 18, 1973, during which time "he had no assistance or advice" in preparing the statement, was not issued "with the intention to deceive."

Citing liabilities of $110 million and assets of $770, including an old typewriter, a 1967 car and an "inoperable sailboat," Mr. Irving filed a petition in bankruptcy on June 25, 1975, and on the sama day was ajudged bankrupt. Mr. Irving, who is visiting New York

Mr. Irving said he had used a model hrief "dug up from my original law firm" and then went to the Pairs Beach Law Library "where I was living and asked like any other citizen of the beach. How does it work? Where do I do the research?"

The clerk explained it to me and I spent two days in the library looking up applicable cases," the author continued. "Then I wrote the brief. It was 50 pages long and in two sections facts and argument, and I mailed it to the court of Aug 5."

with a seven page rebuttal "because it was full of excess and illustral arguments." It was fine of the most satisfying works I've ever written," he said with a laugh.

Mr. Irving said he expected to spend the next six months in Mexico "pegging away on a novel I'm working on about living an island off the coast of Spaint that I lived on many years ago.

The Government's case was based on Mr. Irving's failure to include in the financial statement the receipt of the $44,000 for the film "Reichenbach," which was sold in October 1974. Mr. Irving said his knewer had fold him that his interest in the film was worthless.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP) —The rmy's second-highest general testified oday that every responsible Army official recommended against Secretary of Defense Donald H. Rumsfeld's decision o build a hybrid United States-German

Gen. Walter T. Kerwin Jr., Army vice thief of staff, told the House Armed Servchief of staff, told the House Armed Services Committee that the Army had argued to Mr. Rumsfeld that the decision could only delay production of the Uoited States XM-I tank and increase its cost without improving it.

"It sounds to me like you had a pretty good case," said the acting chairman, Samuel S. Stratton, Democrat of upstate New York.

"We thought we did." the general replied.

U.S. Weighs Asylum for Hijackers Who Killed Stewardess in Flight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—The Immigration and Naturalization Service said today that no decision had been made on whether to grant asylum to two Lithuanians who killed a Soviet stewardess in a hijacking six years ago.

The two, Pragas Brazinskas and his son. Algirdas. were charged last week with having illegally entered the United States. They are now free on bond.

The Brazinskases were convicted of manslaughter in Turkish prison until early this year. The Soviet Unioo has asked for their extradition.

Ford, Easier Home Purchases and the Election Campa

There was a certain American-as-apple-pie quality to President Ford's pro-nouncements on housing when he for-mally opened his election campaign in Ann Arbor last week. His pitch, indirectly, was to the young, middle-class family aspiring to buy a home. These would be the principal pre-sumed beneficiaries of his

The amount of Governmental stimulus to be given to the housing sector is nor mally part of total economic policy.

We think it's ime we raised our voice and not just our rates.

We see a growing set of circumstances that is having a potentially disastrous effect not only on the insurance industry but on every person in American society. Liability losses in both personal and business areas have moved steadily and rapidly upward until rates have gone beyond the reach of many people. And the cost of paying ever larger and more numerous losses results in higher prices for many of the goods and services that you buy.

Here are some examples of situations that you pay for.

Is You

Wort

In many parts of the country the cost of a hospital room (not including doctors, special nurses and medicine) is approaching $200 per day.

A $4,438 automobile costs $19,979 when bought part by part as your repair shop must do, according to the Journal of American Insurance.

In some parts of the country the burning of automobiles in order to collect insurance has reached near-epidemic proportions.

In the area of medical malpractice suits, in one state, ten times as many million-dollar awards have been made since 1970 as in all the years before. (You may want to go over that one again.) The growing volume of such suits is adding more than $3 billion to the nation's annual cost of health care, according to HEW.

During a recent five-year period the average claim settlement in product liability cases has increased by 300%. The resultant astronomical liability protection costs have put some manufacturing companies out of business and threaten still others.

Despite higher premiums, the insurance industry, last year alone, had an underwriting loss of over $4 billion in casualty-property lines.

These are only the direct costs and their effects. The indirect effects hit every one of us, in the form of higher product prices, higher costs for health care, unavailability of needed goods and services, in hundreds of ways, in every sector of our lives.

The next manufactured product you buy may cost many dollars more because the manufactured Lust draw dollars more because the manufacturer's liability protection costs that might have gone for engineering improvements that could blame have lengthened its life.

Or your doctor bills. In many cases they've gone up because of rising malpractice premiums. And there are indications they'll go even higher as doctors are forced to turn more and more to the practice of "defensive" medicine. That is, taking X rays, ordering diagnostic tests, etc., etc., etc., when there may be little recognized medical need for them.

Who's at fault? We're all at fault. How else could it happen?
But that isn't the point. The point is, none of us can go on pretending it isn't happening.

Is it hopeless? We don't think so. In fact, all indications are that this country is stirring itself awake. And we intend to continue to raise our voice on these matters. Because the more you know about the problems, the more likely we can all work together toward effective solutions.

We're working with government agencies, industry associations, and private companies to do what we can to solve these problems. But we need your help. We'd like to know what you think and how you feel about insurance-related problems. And we'll share our ideas on these issues with you. Just drop a letter to our Office of Consumer Information, One Tower Square, Hartford, Conn. 06115.

Then maybe you won't just blame your insurance company and your agent. You'll raise your voice, too, by talking to your neighbors and friends, writing your representatives in government and contacting your insurance commissioner.

Teamsters Tell I.R.S. of Changes in Pension Fund, VIKING 2 TO EXPLORE Arguing That It Again Deserves Tax-Exempt Status

By LEE DEMBART

Special to The New York Times CHICAGO, Sept. 20—The principal pension fund of the International Brother hood of Teamsters, shaken by government investigations, filed documents today with the Internal Revenue Service arguing that the fund is now in complete compliance with all requirements of law.

Extensive changes in the fund's man-agement and benefit programs were de-tailed in support of the application, which was made by the Central States, Southeast and Southwest Area Pension Fund in an effort to regain the tax-exempt status that was revoked late in June after findings of mismanagement and questionable loan practices.

Since the revocation, the pension fund has conducted an all-out campaign in the press and its relations with the Federal Government to paint a picture of changes that have cleaned up the fund, which is under investigation by the Labor and Justice Departments as well as by the tax

Revised Description of Fund

It has argued and continues to argue that whatever wrongdoings may have octrative procedures of the fund, which has required from the employees been the object of charges of corruption, underworld dealings, kickbacks and payoffs for 20 years.

To the extent that the new provisions were written with the requirements of the Federal pension law in mind, they demonstrate that the law is succeeding in guaranteeing to workers the benefits they believed they were working for.

Question of Retroactivity Though part of the tax revocation bas been postponed by the IRS. until Nov. 30, the fund still remains liable for back taxes on its earnings retroactive to 1965. Today's filing sought to have the post-ponement extended until Feb. 28, 1977 and to give the fund permanent tax exemption. It left open the question of the retroactivity on back taxes.

The most significant changes in the pension plan disclosed today bring it into compliance with the law regarding socalled vesting—how long a worker must be employed before his pension benefits cannot be taken eway from him—and breaks in service—what happens if a worker leaves his job and is not covered for a period of time.

that whatever wrongdoings may have occurred in the past, the fund is now being properly run. In some respects, a fund spokesman said today, the revised pension plan is now more liberal than the Federal Pension Reform Act requires.

Today's application to the LR.S., which may take a year or longer to be ected on, included a completely revised description of the fund and its benefits and supporting materials that described a major overhaul of the operations and adminis-

The new break in service rules, effective Jan. 1, 1976, adopt the formula of the pension law, which considers a break in service to have accurred whenever a worker is out of a pension plan longer than be was in it. However, the Central States fund will not consider any suspension of employment for less than three years a break in service, even though the pension law would allow it. Today's filing also for the first time contains an accrual formula—as required by the pension law—under which a work-er earns 3 percent of his normal retirement benefit for each year of service.

If the permanent icecap is several housand feet thick, there may be glaciers flowing down some valleys or draped over cliffs. According to Dr. Geoffrey Briggs of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, a specialist on the polar regions of Mars, recording such features may come within the capabilities of the imaging system. The existence of such fea-tures on Mars 'is by no means inconceiv-able." he said in an interview today, although it is also possible that the cap is less than a few hundred feet thick. Proposals have been made for a later mission to carry a radar that could echo off both the ice surface and the rock beneath it, thus determining how thick the ice is. Such radars are being used ine ice is. Such radars are being used in the Antarctic. Another proposal would be to drop probes heated by a nuclear battery to melt their way down until they hit bedrock. Several would probably be necessary to allow for the possibility that the first one hits a rock embedded in the ice.

Panel Considers Proposals

Today, the Committee on Planetary and Lunar Exploration of the Space Science Board began meeting at the California-Institute of Technology here to consider such proposals for future space explora-tion. The board helps to set policy for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The repeated photographic and infrared-sensing passes over the Martian north pole area may cast light on the origin and nature of the planet's symmetrically terraced, many-layered terrain. Terrace edges in both polar regions tend to lie along concentric circles centered close to but not identical with the pole.

It has been proposed that terraced ter-rain were formed when Mars was spinning around a slightly different axis, producing climatic conditions differing

Another infrared device will determine the temperature of the polar ice, indicating whether it is frozen water, carbon dioxide or a mixture of both. If it is pure carbon dioxide, the temperature under Martian conditions should be minus 193 degrees Farenheit. If it is water, the temperature should be minus 112 degrees. ### Question Opens Trial of Mandel And 4 Friends

By BEN A. FRANKLIN

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20—The political prouption trial of Governor Marvin Mandel of Maryland and four accused co-condel of Maryland and four accused co-con-spirators finally began in Federal Court here today with a blistering prosecution statement charging the two-term Demo-cratic Governor and his friends with se-cretly exploiting his power for their mutual enrichment and then lying to

Before a painstakingly-picked 12-member jury, whose selection bad consumed nearly eight full days, the prosecution outlined for the first time today the scope of what the Government intended to prove and the nuances expected to arise in three to four months of testimony. The main question, as put to the jury in a tough, three-hour introduction by Assistant United States Attorney Barnet D. Skolnik, the 35-year-old chief prosecutor in the case, is: "When does friendship become a euphemism for something cor-rupt and illegal?"

Defense lawyers will make their opening statements tomorrow.

Forms of Testing rham areas are in trouble w suffering also from growing constraints excities," said Dr. Thomas arboretum in a report lay. "Urban tree popula-creasingly vulnerable to y tree disease and insect se of over-concentration i of a very few species,"

Testing at the 2,000-acre, 5-year-old Cary Arboretum, under the direction of Dr. David Karnovsky, takes two forms. Dr. Kernovsky is attempting, first of all, to create a new strain of disease-resistant elm, to replace the many trees killed in recent years by many trees killed in recent years by the spread of Dutch Elm disease. This involves crossing two strains of elm—American and Japanese—with different chromosome counts. To make cross-pollination possible, scientists at the arboretum must seek out twin American elm seedlings of a sort that occurs only about nnce in 10,000 plants. 50 far, a few such seedlings have been isolated, but it will be several years before a new generation of elm can evolve. At the same time a "gas chamber" has been constructed on the grounds of the privately financed Dutchess County facility, for the purpose of subjecting eight varieties of tree seedlings to very high, controlled doses of suffer dioxide, carboo monoxide and ozone, to determine which seedlings are least affected by atmospheric pollution.

Meanwhile, spurred in part by findings from the resaearch at the arbor-etum Senator Jacob K. Javits and Rep-

Hamilton Fish Jr. held a press conference yesterday to say that they plan to introduce legislation to provide matching Federal funds for urban treeplanting and maintenance.

With an appropriation of $10 million, the proposed Urban Trees Act would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to match, dollar for dollar, private contributions made to cities for planting and maintaining trees on public lands, and to match 50 percent of city funds allocated for the same purpose. If the bill is approved, 5 to 10 percent of those funds would go to New York City.

There are currently 60,000 street trees (not counting those in parks) in New York City. The tree mortality rate, Mar-York City. The tree mortality rate, Martin Lang, the City Parks Commissione, reported at yesterday's meeting in Brooklyn, cals for repacement of approximatey 20,000 trees every year, at a cost of thout $180 a tree.

"Contrast the ambience," Commissioner Lang said, standing under an anemic Londoo Plane tree. Here, "We're standing in the dappled shade, and across the street it'a a baked canyon. Trees give a neighborhood pizzazz."

When you need a new car, one word from Chemical can make you a satisfied customer.

When you need a new car, you've got your own ideas of what kind of car you want. Because chances are, you've been wanting it for a long time.

Trouble is, new cars cost a lot of money. -So do many used cars these days. And if you're like many car customers, you'll probably need some financial help before you get behind the wheel.

At Chemical Bank, we realize that your financial needs are as unique as the kind of car you want to drive. So when you make up your mind that you're not going to wait any longer, it's time to see us. If you qualify, we'll say "Yes" to the right kind of terms to satisfy your personal financial needs.

We'll even reserve your money for 90 days, so you'll have time to shop around for the best deal on the car you want. Come in and see us. We have people at more than 250 locations throughout the New York area who would like to make a satisfied customer out of you.

Because at Chemical Bank, we know the one thing all loan customers have in common is that one word they want to hear: "Yes."

He says he will vote for Mr. Ford because he is "a known quantity" while he distrusts Mr. Carter as "an individual I have known before—people who are hungry for power in its own right; the man doth protest too worch short his hyman doth protest too much about his hu-manity."

But he is irritated with the Republicans for seizing on the abortion issue. "If they think they are going to make any ground on abortion they are making a mistake," he said, adding that "Catholics vote social and economic class more than enything

To take the vacation of a lifetime, you don't have to save for a lifetime.

Or to take a business trip, you don't have to have a lavish expense account. Because now Pan Am is offering low fall air fares to 18 cities all over Europe.

Bargains on fares.

Starting with our regular economy fares, which are especially good for people on business trips since they have no restrictions, you can save from 13% to 21% over regular summer economy fares.

And we have more low fares that can save you even more than the low fall economy fares.

For example, our 14/21-day fares. If you can stay at least 14 days and not more than 21, you can save up to 22% more.

Then there're our 22/45-day fares. If you're lucky enough to have that much time for Europe, you can save 30% to 40% more.

And last, our Budget Fares. Which were very low to begin with and are even lower now. Because you can save about 50% over fall economy fares. All you have to do is buy your ticket 2 months in advance and spend 22 to 45 days vacationing in . Europe. (Which should be easy enough.) Naturally, a fare that can save you so much is subject to other conditions and restrictions regarding travel dates and itinerary changes. Your travel agent can give you all the details.

The flights are regularly scheduled ones. On our comfortable 747s, you'll get a choice from 3 entrees in economy. And every flight has 2 movies to choose from ($2.50 per headset in economy).

Bargains on tours.

Of course our fall bargains apply to our tour prices also. One-Weekers. Two-Weekers. Three-

Weekers. London Show Tours. Fly/Drives. Pan Am has tours to just about any place in Europe. For just about any budget. Just ask your travel agent about Pan Am's World tours to Europe.

Use the American Express Card:

Just tell your travel agent or our ticket agent that you want to pay for your Pan Am fall bargain vacation with the American Express Card.

You can even extend your payments with the American Express Card "Sign & Fly" or "Sign & Travel" plans.

If you don't have a card, you can pickup an application wherever the American Express Card is welcomed. Or you can apply for one by calling toll-free (800) 528-8000.

But don't take advantage of our bargains just because they're bargains. Take advantage of our bargains because they're fall bargains. When the hysteria of summer subsides. The crowds of tourists have gone. But while the weather is still nice.

And with foreign exchange rates being better than they've been in a long time, your cash or the American Express Card can go a lot further.

See your travel agent.

Democrats in Oklahoma Voting Today to Choose Nominee for Albert Post

Ry The Associated Press

The Democratic nomination for the Congressional seat being vacated by the retiring House Speaker, Carl Albert, is at stake today in a runoff election between an Oklahoma state senator and Mr. Albert's longtime chief aide.

In another primary today, in the State of Washington, a former Atomic Energy Commission chief, Dixy Lee Ray, is one of three candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for governor.

In Oklahoma, State Senator Wes Wat-kins and Charles Ward, Mr. Albert's for-mer top aide, are fighting for the Third Congressional District Democratic nomination to succeed Mr. Albert, who is retiring after 30 years in Congress.

Mr. Watkins led Mr. Ward by about 10,000 votes in the seven-candidate primary on Aug. 25. The winner will face Dr. Gerald Beasley, the Republican nomi-nee, and Jack C. Finley, an independent, in the Nov. 2 general election.

In Oklahoma's Fifth District, Tom Dunlap and Tony Zahn meet in a runoff for the Democratic nomination for the seat beng vacated by retiring Representative John Jarman, a Republican. The winner will face Mickey Edwards, a Republican, and four independents.

The Washington primary has been report on the fluorocarbon/ozone issue, September 13, 1976.

In two reports on the effects of fluorocarbons on ozone, the National Academy of Sciences actually made twelve recommendations regarding the uses of these products.

We agree with all twelve.

But the essence of the Academy's present intentions is most clearly stated in its recommendation #6. To prevent misunderstanding which may have arisen in the minds of the public, we reproduce that specific recommendation in its entirety:

> "6. In view of the present inadequacies in the bases of our calculations.

in view of the reduction in these inadequacies promised by ongoing measurement programs, and in view of the small changes in ozone reductions following from a year or two delay, we wish to recommend against decision to regulate at this time."

Major research is currently under way by government, industry and others to fill the gaps in our knowledge on the fluorocarbon / ozone controversy. Meanwhile, fluorocarbons are vital to products each of us uses every day-air conditioning, refrigeration, and many aerosols.

Science will eventually collect enough information to permitresponsible final decisions. But we feel the National Academy of Sciences has been emphatic: there is not sufficient scientific evidence against fluorocarbons to regulate now.

Screen: 'Aloise' Deals in Madness

Liliane de Kermadec Work Is Divided Into 2 Sections, Youthful Protagonist and Later Days in the Asylum

By RICHARD EDER "Aloise" is a very static and occa-sionally very beautiful movie that suffers mainly from not being about as much as it attempts to be about. It is the story of a repressed, grave girl with lopsided angers who goes from Switzerland to Germany as a governess, falls in love with her employees ployer, is sent back to Switzerland wheo World War I breaks out, goes mad, and spends the rest of her life in in her old age and the film's, her clogged, hismatched gifts find a suddeo channel. Aloise—the protagonist—makes a remarkable series of paintings: bright-colored, Chagall-like figures with a rocketing exhibits and, invariably, closed eyes.

"Aloise," which was shown yesterday in the Secood International Festival of Women's Films at the Cmema Studio, is divided by its director, Liliane de Kermadec, into two very distinct sections. The first is an elliptical series of scenes, filmed with deliberate stillness and a white light, showing the protagonist as a young

She is the daughter of a Swiss rail-road employee; she lives with him and her sister. Her mother is dead. "My oame," she says, "has: every vowel except 'u.' I wish I were called Tulo." She is sure she is a singer; she takes lessons, practices, glares at other lessdetermined singers at church. But her voice won't serve; it is tuneful, but As played by Isabella Hippert, the adolescent Aloise is, in her unvarying gravity, a figure of some mystery? What is this frustrated effort, this self-delusion building toward?

The scene shifts suddenly, and so does the actress. She arrives in Germany for her job as a governess; almost at once the role is taken over by another actress, Delphine Sevrig. She falls in love hysterically, is sent home, and breaks down.

The mystery of the child is resolved: All those miances were preparation for madness. But this is asserted, not demonstrated. There is no real link: First she was sad as Isabeile Hup-pert then she was mad as Delphine Seyrig.

The bulk of the film, then, is Miss Seyrig in the asylum. We see the doctors talking, the other pstients. Aloise serself, it is most painfully and well observed, and Miss Seyrig's performance is breathtaking. But for quite a while we are never really sure why we are seeing it.

The ending puts things together to some extent. Aloise begins to paint oo some extent. Alorse begins to paint of wrapping paper, the doctors encourage her, and her work is put of exhibition in a big-city gallery. There is one splendid scene: She inspects the display, this aged sparrow of a woman, still quite mad hopping hy those evidences of a life that lives only on the wall and that she only faintly recognizes. and that she only faintly recognizes.
And making banal comments such as this one, in front of a picture of two lovers: "This is a little vulgar, pretty, but not my cup of tea."

A startling image of disassociation, it almost makes up for the long long passages that precede it.

2-Month Tour of U.S. Universities By 'The Ik' Starts Oct. 8 in Capital

tal theater company, the International Center of Theater Research, is plaining a two-mooth tour of American universities this fall with Mr. Brook's productioo of "The Ik." an adaptation of Colin Turnbull's "The Mountain People."

"The Tk," which has already been staged in Paris and Loodon, is an ensemble theater piece dealing with a primitive Ugandan tribe that, because, of a government decree; was forced to abandon its life as hunters, and asa result lost its sense of human values.

The tour is scheduled to begin Oct. 8 at George Washington University in Washington, to be followed hy visits to the University of Pennsylvania in-Philadelphia, the University of Chicago, the University of Minnesofa (at the Walker Arts Center in Minneapolis); the University of California at Berkeley. and at Los Angeles, and at the University of Houston. Many of the visits are in conjunction with university departments of anthropology:

Several Factors Cause: Switch in 'Texas Trilogy'

Over the weekend the producers of Preston Jones's "A Texas Trilogy," Robert Whitehead and Roger L Stevens, announced a change in the sequence of the opening nights of the three plays.

What had been the second play, 'Lu Ann Hampton Laverty Oberlander," originally to open tomorrow, was moved forward to this evening, switching with "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia." The third play, "The Oldest Liviog Graduate," remains as it was and will opeo oo Thursday

The change in the sequence is due entirely to technical production considerations, Oscar Oelsner, general manager for the prodocers, said yesterday and to such matters as seeing to it that the actors give on more than eight performances a week and have a full day off. The three plays will give a total of 11 performances a week.

"Tu Am' has two sets but it seemed to work more easily and that gave us time for th cothers." Mr. Oelsoer said. He pointed out that the crew for 'Trilogy' was not able to get into the Broadhurst before Sept. 13 because the theater had been occupied by 'Godspell until the previous evening and previews of "A Texas Trilogy" were it begin on Sept. 17: In addition: the movi-meant switching from the "space ag electronic system" to the Rennedy Ce ter in Washington, where the trilog played recently to the portable equil ment that the New York crew had learn to use. And there were three truckloads of scenery to handle be cause each play had its own setting.

HISTORY RE-VIEWED The exhihitioo 'Pioneer Photographers of Branintioo "Pioneer Photographers of Bra-zil: 1840-1920" may well be an exam-pie of parallel hut independent devel-opments in technology. The oldest sur-viving daguerrectype in the Americas was made by a Father Compte, in Bra-zil in 1840. That was three mooths after announcement of the invention in Paris and earlier than any surviving daguerreotype in New York. In fact, several items in the show indicate that Brazilians, Europeans and artists-photographers of the country were doing comparable work in the 19th ceotury.

There are 150 photographs in the display; none of the 15 photographers included has heep exhibited in the 20th century. Only ooe, Marc Ferrez, has ever been mentioned in standard texts as playing a part in the history of photography.

The exhibition is at the Center for Inter-American Relations, 680 Park Avenue, et 68th Street, Tuesday through Sunday, until Nov. 14 from coon to 6 P.M. Informatico: 249-8950. Admission: $1; students, 50 cents. MORE THAN MONEY Well, what next? The Manhattan Savings Bank's Park Lane office, at 186 East 86th Street, will present a live program this evening of familiar operatic arias. Selections from "Madama Butterfly," "The Marriage of Figaro" and "The Pearl Fishers" will be sung. The soloists are Carolyn Weber, soprano; Doris Holloway, mezzo-soprano; James Ashury, tenor, and Forrest Lorey, baritone. They will be accompanied by Roger Rundle at the piano.

The program starts at 7:30 o'clock and admission is free.

The Manhattan Sevings' main office, oo Madisoo Avenue at 47th Street, will hold the bank's sixth annual cartoonists show, entitled 'The History of Cartooning." Gartoonists will make oconday appearances, between 12 and 2 P.M.

this week through Friday Some will

Space Shuttle Enterprise

Paramount Pictures and the thousands of loyal fans of Star Trek are happy that the United States of America's new space shuttle has been named after Star Trek's starship, The Enterprise. (It's nice to know that sometimes science fiction becomes science fact).

Starship Enterprise will be joining the Space Shuttle Enterprise in its space travels very soon. Early next year, Paramount Pictures begins filming an extraordinary motion picture adventure—STAR TREK.

Now we can look forward to two great space adventures.

Have a Dream' Pays Tribe On Stage to Martin Luther k

By CLIVE BARNES

Montgomery, Selma, Memphis, all that, sad, long litany of Southern towns, whose cames marked like tombstones the eventual triumph of the Civil Rights movement and the Constitution. The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., that militant pacifist preacher destined to become a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize and defensibly American crack one early April evening in 1968 on the balcony of a Memphis motel. The agony of a natioo, the anguish of a people.

That is the subject matter of Robert Greenwald's theater-piece "I Have a Dream," which opened last night at the Amhassador heater. It is a measure of Dr. King's mattyrdom that in death he King'a martyrdom that in death he has become insantaly a figure of history. And this is not because of the legend of his life—which indeed was legendary—but because in the shortest shadow of his death so much of what he died for has, Blatant discrimination has been removed, and although equality is yet to be achieved, the basic legal ground rules have definitely been established.

Dr. King, always a realistic vi-sionary, would be the first to admit that there is much to be done. But as he once put it: "We ain't what we are going to be. And we ain't what we want to be. But Thank God! We ain't what we

In an evening where the ultimate outcome is histry, and where no opposing dialectic (however misguided) is presented, it is difficult to maintain dramatic tension. ### Philharmonic Finds Soviet To Is a Time for Spirited Excha

MOSCOW, Sept 20 — Whether they come here as musicians, scientists, diplomats or just plain tourists, many Americans are developing stroog, conflicting atti-tudes about the Russians and great attractioo and great revul-

· So it was in the last two weeks as the New York Philharmonic toured Leningrad and Moscow, its members performing, conducting workshops for Soviet students, going oo late-night drinking bouts with Soviet musicians, the orchestra flew home over the weekend.

"I can't believe how these people drink," said Renée Siebert, a 26-year-old flutist. It was a re-mark made with a certain admiration, or at least warmth, for those among the 110 orchestra members who spent time with Soviet musicians and came away with fondness and professional respect for them.

The drinking and talking sessions after coocerts were just the sort that gladden hearts in whatever State Department office runs "Half of it was in Ydidish, half of it was in German, Russian, English - we'd drink and drink," said Gerard Schwarz, a trumpet player. Inevitably, some bonds were formed, addresses exchanged. But at the same time, Mr. Schwarz and others — while eschewing any interest in politics — were ap-palled at the vulnerability of art to politics in the Soviet Union. Mr. Schwarz concluded that Soviet and American societies were so alien to each other in this respect that they could not even be compared. When he came upon another American at a luncheon, he found himself talking about principles of artistic freedom that he noted were so fundamental to American life that they were normally taken for granted and left undiscussed at

It was partly in recognition of these gaps that the Philharmonic management, headed by its managing director, Albert K. Webster, tried to reach Russians by going well beyond the eight public concerts and two open rehearsals on the formal schedule. Aware that seath ware largely reserved for seats were largely reserved for those with official connections, Mr. Webster bought tickets for the last two coocerts in each city to give free to interested Russians whom he and others encountered He brought stacks of scores by some of the most interesting contemprary American composers, such as Elliot Carter and John Cage, to distribute to selected Soviet musicians. Such music is too unorthodox for official Soviet taste and is not performed here.

The orchestra also arranged day-time lectures, clinics and work-shops for music students at the Leningrad and Moscow Conservatories, a program that reportedly met some resistance from Soviet teachers who apparently did not want their students' failures on display. Some sessions were canceled as a result. But most went on Erich Leinsdorf ran faschating work-

Oboists, flutists, violists, bassoonists and others split up to their specialties and settled into small rooms with students and professors to listen to one and other play and talk about their instruments.

Some orchestra members emerged from these sessions impressed with the discipline and skill of many of the Soviet students, but equally amazed at their inability, in a society that places such emphasis on nusic, to get good instruments and accessories in the way of strings, reeds, mouthpieces and the like. The Americans were asked frequently for any extras that they might have along Stanley Drucker, a clarinetist, gave away some reeds. Mr. Schwarz, during a trumpet workshop, asked if mouthpieces were hard to get here and was assured by a senior professor at the Moscow Conservatory that they were readily available. Afterwards, in the corridor, Mr. Schwarz said, a couple of kids came up and asked me to send them a couple

Enrique Batiz of Mexico Leads Concert by American Symphony

By JOHN ROCKWELL

The American Symphony Orchestra concert Sunday evening in Carnegie Hall wasn't an ordinary American Symphony Orchestra concert. The regular series begins Oct. 10.

Instead, this was a rather curious part of Mexico's observance of the United States' Bicentennial. Curious because it consisted of a co-presentation with Carnegie Hall of an American orchestra conducted by Enrique Batiz, who heads the Symphony Orchestra of the State of Mexico.

The soloist was a Venezuelan pianist, Eva Maria Zuk (who is Mrs. Batiz, although the program didn't take note of that fact). The program offered the most standard of non-American, non-Mexican repertory, except for one piece by Silvestre Revueltas, dedicated to Federico Garcia Lorca a Spaniard. And this came after a two-week tour of Mexico by the same forces.

All of which would bave mattered not a whit bad the concert been a fine one; unfortunately it was not. Mr. Batiz is a vigorous-looking man and com-ports himself on the podium with hlunt directness. But even after the twoweek period of acclimatization, the playing wasn't very refined, technically, and the interpretations weren't subtly shaped.

The principal problem was that Mr. Batiz opted for stately tempos and didn't seem to know bow to maintain tension between the loud parts. The resuit was that the music often went slack, blandly limping to the next unprepared climax.

As a result Beethoven's "Leonore" overture No. 3 and the Mussorgsky-Ravel "Pictures at an Exhibition" were simply boring. The Chopin Piano Con-certo No. 1 was enlivened just a bit by Miss Zuk, although she too fell victim to the prevailing boneless, watery lyric-

Revueltas's "Homenaje a García Lorca" was by far the most interesting aspect of the afternnon, partly default, Scored for violins, string basses, winds, brass and percussion (including piann), It manages over its three movements and 12 minutes to sound both folkish and fresh, full of ostinato figures for the violins and angular, sweeping melo-

Concert: The Cleveland Quartet

A music conservatory is only as good as its faculty, and the University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music is out to prove that its performing instructors are the equal of any by presenting them in a series of concerts this season at Tully Hall. Sunday night the Cleveland Quartet, currently in residence at Eastman, provided the focal point of the first concert, and the players were joined by five of their colleagues in a program of chamban revision

The Clevelanders, of course, are a The Clevelanders, of course, are a well-known quantity hereabouts: these four talented young musicians have frequently played in New York since they first formed their eusemble in 1969. Mr. Yesselman said that Mr. Taylor could not keep the 12-dancer troupe together because of inadequate fund-ing for overhead costs such as rent and insurance, as well as rehearsal

"Basically, what we need are major sources of support in the area of cor-poration funding," he said, "In the last six months, we contacted over 120 corporations and corporate foundations with no success. The basic problem is the company has always lived hand to mouth. Before, when the maney was coming in on tour, the hills could be covered. But the cancellation of this tour cuts off all income until January. We understand the promnter has gone bankrupt."

Mr. Taylor, 46 years old, announced that he would devote his time to rais-ing funds, and would decline the invi-tations he has from other companies to stage his works.

Mariko Sanio's Dances Have Hypnotic Intensity Extraordinary to the Eye

The hypnntic, intensity of Mariko Sanjo's dances derives in part from their understatement and sculptural shaping, but most importantly from the intense feeling of ritual that Miss Sanjo imparts to anything she does. At the American Theater Laboratory Sunday evening, one nad the feeling of participation in a weighty esthetic ceremony.

"Voices," a group work for herself, Jim McConnel, Martha Roth, Michael Schwartz and Fran Spector, began with play of lights. Miss Sanjn, in the gloom, gestured with one band held in the glare of a small lighted circle. She extinguished the light nnly to re-illuminate her face at the seme time that the four others like specters across the stage while intoning single notes. Wrapped bundles were pushed across moments later and one woman was wrapped and tied to resemble those bundles. It was visually extraordi-

"Jomnn" was based on primitive statuary that could be analagous to our pre-Columbian figurines. Miss Sanin's solo in figured, earth-colored, close-fitting costume was composed, but also suggested a restless quest for something just beyond her grasp.

Eiko and Koma, Japanese avant-garde dancers, made a surprise appearance in "Mnth," part of their longer work, "White Dance." A man stood immobile at the Dance." A man stood immobile at the rear of the stage while the woman sat with downcast eyes in the center. She egan with small movements of one foot as he stepped off with staccato paces. Slowly she enlarged the hreadth of her movements until she animated her whole figure into a yearning configuration, reaching upward. The utter simplicity of it belied the exceptional body control that made it possible.

Bridge books from England are nearly always of a high standard, and the new always of a high standard, and the new season's crop is no exception. The first of them is "Bridge Analysis" by Borls Schapiro, published here by Sterling. This is a 187 page hard-cover, moderately priced at $4.95 and available from the Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York.

The author, a former world champion, has a lively writing style and presents an interesting collection of deals, with the emphasis on play rather than hidding. On the diagramed deal,

But when North followed his vulnerable overcall with two moves toward slam, a cue-hid in hearts and then a cue-bid in clubs, South was entitled to bid six spades.

Reason to Rejoice

As one might both hope and expect the authors of "The Curse" are deter mined to remove the cultural stigma thet may well be more pernicious than any physiological factors. Menarche, or first menses, which is penalized by severe punishment or up to three years' solitary confinement in some primitive tribes, and which still serves as an occasion for mys tification and embarrassment in ours, should be instead a reason for rejoicing, according to Misses Delaney, Lupton and Toth. If menstruction is natural, then there is nothing in it to be estimmed of.

The last chapter shows what women are doing to free themselves of their apologetic posture in the fece of their physiology. While poetry written in cele-bration of menstruation seems to suffer so far from a certain rhetorical awkwardness, some of the efforts of visual artists, as described by the euthors are refreshingly uninhibited. Especially successful was a "Bleed-In" that they staged themselves. "For the occasion," they write, "Mary Jane had decorated the bathroom

About seeking enlightenment, new meaning for their lives, drifting, learning, and living.

Mr. Carter Toes the Line

Presidential candidates cannot afford and cannot be expected to reject the political support of all those who do not agree completely with them. And yet there are limits to the embraces of expediency. Even by the most relaxed standards of campaign promiscuity, former Governor Carter's Mississippi love feast with Senators James O. Eastland and John C. Stennis stretched the limits of political decency.

The prospect of breaking Mississippi's twenty-year estrangement from Democratic Presidential candidates is, of course, sweet music in the ears of any Democratic contender. In quest of such a prize, Jimmy Carter could hardly be faulted for seeking to cormalize relations with the Old South's elder spokesmen, even if this called for such concessions as terming them "statesmen"-an attribute that comes cheap on the bustings. But to describe Messrs. Eastland and Stennis as men with whom it is "a great honor" to be campaigning does little honor to Mr. Carter.

The former Georgia Governor has a creditable record on integration and therefore knows at first hand what it took to overcome the stonewalling bigotry of such meo as the two Mississippi Senators. It thus, was an act of political hypocrisy when Mr. Carter implied that the great integration progress that has indeed been made in Mississippi can in part be ascribed to the "courage" of such men as Senators Eastland and Stennis, who were honest enough quickly to disown any credit, recalling instead that they never voted for a civil rights bill in their lives.

"Let me just say one thing about this integratioo," Senator Stennis said during the reception at the Biloxi airport. "I'm against it, always have been and always will be, but it'a a fact. I'm not a fool. . . . .

Sincere? Yes. But hartly a sign of the "courage" responsible for great racial changes in the South. That change was brought about by a brave company of men and women, including a great many Southerners, who worked, fought, bled and even died for a principle. Their victories ought not to be sullied by being mentioned in the same breath with compliments to Senators Eastland and Stennis-not even under the mitigating circumstances of an election campaign.

A Death in Central Park

At about the time the Croatian hijackers were being returned from Paris to New York to answer for their spectacular and fatal misadventure, a crime of considerably less worldwide interest-but with a peculiar viciousness of its own-was being committed against a young woman doing nothing more provocative than walking her dog in broad daylight in Central Park. We wish we could be as confident, that the obscure pursesnatchers responsible for the death of Karen Singer will receive as speedy and certain justice as will the hijackers who captured world attention that same day.

Karen Singer, a 25-year-old New Yorker, was leading her pet beagle along the bridle path near East 88th Street at about 5:30 in the afternoon, literally a few feet from the beavily traveled East Drive and a few yards from the even heavier traffic of Fifth Avenue, when she was attacked by two young men who tried to rip away ber handbag-later found to contain $5. In the brief struggle, a knife was plunged into Miss

Singer's beart; she died a few hours later. Passersby who saw the incident set up a hue and cry, chasing the fleeing suspects until one was captured by a police officer. The other was arrested later at his

What is especially important in so brutal a crime as this is not only that justice be done, but that it be done speedily. The median lapse of time in this city between indictment and trial for criminal cases is about six months; though that is shorter than it used to be, it is still too long. Particularly in homicide cases, lawyers use every device in the book to delay the trial on the theory that the longer it can be deferred the more blurred the prosecutor's case is likely to become and the greater the chances for a softer sentence or even

But justice delayed is justice denied; and if we are going to put an end to the kind of wanton killing that took place in Central Park a few days ago, society is going to have to speed the creaking wheels of the criminal justice system.

End of an Era in Sweden

The voters of Sweden have ended 44 years of rule by the Social Democrats—the longest tenure of uninterrupted power for any party in the world except for the Communists in the Soviet Union. The Scandinavian unbeaval, not entirely unexpected, also retires to the opposition benches in the Riksdag the colorful, controversial Olof Palme, still only 49 after seven tumultuous years as Prime Minister.

While promising oot to dismantle Sweden's extensive social security and welfare system, the winning coalition of three center and moderate right parties attacked Mr. Palme's Government on a broad range of issues: high taxes, increased centralization of political power, a swolleo and indifferent bureaucracy, creeping tradeunion control of industry and, significantly, the planned expansion of nuclear energy resources.

On the nuclear issue, the campaign witnessed a reversal of the ideological division that ofteo obtains elsewhere on safety and environmental aspects. It was the Socialist Mr. Palme who doggedly defended a plan to build thirteen more atomic reactors by 1985; and it was the Center Party leader and probable new Prime Minister, Thorbjorn Falldin, who promised to kill that program-he said it would risk "the lives of future generations"-and even to close the five nuclear plants

Though the Socialists have not nationalized Swedisb industries - have indeed given tax breaks to big business-Mr. Palme was assailed for endorsing a plan that would give the unions control within 20 years of all sizable companies. He may have been hurt late in the campaign by allegations that neutral Sweden had secretly bought electronic equipment and even satellite. photos from the United States to monitor troop movements in the Soviet bloc. Some Swedes worried over the fact that Mr. Palme bad been dependent for survival on Communist votes in the Riksdag.

Mr. Palme is young enough to hope for a comeback; and a spell in opposition could be healthy for him as well as for his party-still Sweden's biggest by a considerable margin.

Forty-four years is a long time in power and it is obvious that even many Swedes who found much to admire in the Social Democratic record felt that it was long enough. .

Poor Congressional Environment

The 94th Congress will have to display more energy, efficiency and skill in the next ten days than it has shown all session if it is to wind up with an environmental record it can take to the electorate with any pride. Rushing beadlong toward an Oct. 2 adjournment, it has yet to resolve major legislative questions concerning-among other matters-air pollution, control over toxic substances, management of the national forests, regulation of strip mining and protection of wetlands.

In the matter of toxic substances, the agreement worked out in a conference committee of both bouses is reasonable and would allow the Environmental Protection Agency to impede the marketing of potentially dangerous compounds until they could be tested and their harmlessness proved. The bill should be passed-and in time to force President Ford to take a stand rather than allow him to bury it by a silent pocket veto.

The measure to amend the Clean Air Act of 1970 is in a different category. The House would grossly weaken that law by insisting in conference on the Dingell-Broyhill amendment, which gives the automobile industry until 1982 to achieve emission standards for hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide that, were to bave been reached last year and would practically repeal the statutory standards that have been fixed for oxides of nitrogen altogether.

There is still a possibility that this drastically backward step will be erased in conference and that the stronger Senate version will also prevail with respect to preventing the degradation of air where it is still purer than Federal standards require. Far too much time and labor have gone into the Clean Air amendments for anyone to want to see the legislation die now, only to have the whole long process start from scratch with the next Congress. But there are limits to how far a measure can be compromised without being wholly

The same thing may be said of the Nantucket Sound Trust bill, a land-use measure of vital importance to preserving the unique qualities of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket from imminently threatened overdevelopment. A reasonable measure has passed the Senate. Severely weakening amendments have been proposed in the House, but it still would be far better to have this bill become law even with these amendments than to have no bill at all.

A bill to authorize funds for construction of water treatment plants would be unarguable if that were all there was to it. A narrowly passed amendment spoosored by Senators Baker of Tennessee and Randolph of West Virginia would somewhat lessen the power of the Army Corps of Engineers to control the dredging and filling of waterways and wetlands. But it would not seriously curtail that power, which the Corps, to its credit, has been conscientiously exercising.

The House version of the bill, however, would destroythat power almost completely—thereby exposing to uncontrolled destruction some two-thirds of the country's invaluable wetlands. If its amendment (sponsored by Representatives Wright of Texas and Breaux of Louisiana) is to prevail, then the bill had far better go down to defeat.

Both houses have produced bills designed primarily to undo a Federal court decision prohibiting further clearcutting in the Monongahela National Forest, feared by the timber industry as a possible nationwide precedent. We would have preferred to see no hasty legislation on the subject; but if there must be a bill at all, the Senate's is far the better of the two. It contains strong provisions to prevent overcutting and to forbid logging on marginal lands, where soil loss is inevitable and reforestation unlikely.

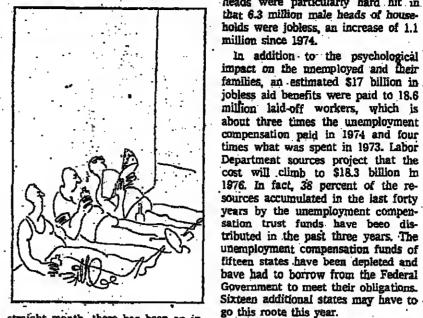

No thanks to the House Rules Committee, there is still a faint chance that a strip-mine regulation bill will emerge once more to plague an Administration which habitually vetoes that long-needed legislation. This year's model of the legislation has been modified to give more time for compliance and otherwise soften the impact on mine owners, but it is still a strong bill. Its last-minute passage would go far to offset an otherwise undistinguished Congressional record in the still politically potent area of environmental protection.

Actions taken regarding the opportunities and the problems created by the enormous power of scieoce-based technology play a major role in determining our future. In this situation many scientists have become emotionally involved in the impact of their scientific field oo society and have become vigorous public advocates for action consistent with their value systems. The disputes that result when inarticulate conflicting values are presented by scientists as though they were scientific facts has produced much public confusion and fear of the unknown, which bas compromised our ability to make timely responses to the challenges of a rapidly changing

It is proposed to harness the power of scientific advocacy in the Science Court procedure. The best efforts of devoted advocates will be used in substantiating the factual basis of their positions before scientifically trained judges who have no involvement in the field in question, and in the presence of their expert adversaries. An analog of cross-examination will be used to exhibit the weaknessesin claimed scientific factual statements. To conform with the scientific tradition, the procedure will differ from the legal adversary model in many important ways.

As was mentioned in the editorial. such a procedure must be approached with caution. We propose to proceed first by holding a public meeting (see Science, Aug. 20 issue) at which the Science Court and its proposed procedures will be debated. Following this meeting we hope to set up a Science Court experiment to develop its potentialities and to exhibit its problems. The procedure will be cooducted in public and the sole authority of the resultant factual output will reside in the credibility of the procedure with ARTHUR KANTROWITZ the public.

Opinions Without Rights To the Editor:

In his Sept. I Op-Ed article, "Above the Rabble." John-Silber argues, correctly I think, that we ought to distinguish between the two principles: Everyone bas the right to his own opinioo, and everyone's opinion is of equal weight. Silber goes oo to argue that, whereas the first is true in any democratic society, the second is false.

I agree with Silber that the second principle is false, but it seems to me that the first, in at least one sense, is also false. We ought equally to distinguish between legal rights and moral rights. It is, of course, true that in any democracy everyone has a legal right to his own opinion, but it seems to me faise that everyone has a moral right to his own opinion unless his opinion is the result of reason and the seeking of evidence which will support it.

Someone who has an opinion which be holds simply because he finds it comfortable, or because it is the result of some wild impulse or inspiration but for which he has no evidence, has no moral right to his opinion.

Which Alley for 'Fat Cats' Now?

By Edgar M. Bronfman

During Presidential campaigns, pecple from the business world are usually referred to -- no matter what their actual girth-as "fat cats." Candidates; and their managers have always looked toward us lustfully, with a hunger for financial backing steaming in their eyes. Everyone suspected and, after Watergate, everybody knew, that all kinds of favors were bought, jobs bartered and the whole democratic process

Under tha reformed campaign law, Presidential candidates are financed by check-offs on Federal income tax returns. No other money, or services of any value, may be directly given in a Presidential campaign. It is a wonderful change. But what does it do to the role of the "fat cat" business leader so accustomed to special clout? What can his real contribution be now? This November the Government . could experience the biggest transformation since 1932: a generationally net and senior bureaucracy. Many business executives regard this prospect with distinct unease, to say the least. But I believe that this possible watershed election could be a major opportunity for business. With only their wits to contribute, business could seize the chance to create a new relationship between the private sector and Government, an atmosphere in which business might contribute to the change the country needs rather than just witnessing it or fighting it.

. There can be little argument that such a new relationship is needed. Business itself has never been held in such disrepute. It is more than coincidence that two of the lowest groups in esteem on the polisters' totem pole are business leaders and politicians. (Labor leaders also rank abysmally low.) However valid the justifications for the mistrust, husiness has become increasingly defensive and isolated, talking mainly to Itself, with even its valid insights and experiences often ignored by Government and Congress. The biggest loser in this standoff is the American citizen who wants to work usefully to raise his family to that better life which is, and should be, the American dream.

To change that, I believe American business must look to itself, its language of dissent, its corporate behavior and its contribution to the process of government. If business were less selfserving, it would better understand that what is good for America is good for business and not always the other way around. There will always be tension between government and business, just as there is between a free press and the Government. The question is: Can that tension be made

The task for business is formidable Mistrust is deep. But there are positive signs Business has responded to the cries of environmentalists, the needs of the deprived, to the aspirations of minorities (including women). To be sure, business often has to be pushed, instead of leading. But in communities across the United States business has formed an indispensable working partnership for local social and economic

. What has been accomplished in communities can be done on a national scale. Business can start to re-examine its own behavior. It can form groups and new task forces to make a contribution to national problems like business ethics, hard-core unemployment, further pension security, transportation, taxation, energy and other problems on which business has special knowledge.

The time has passed when business can simply act as custodians of the free-enterprise tradition. The electorate now mistrusts business when we act only as angry guardians of our endangered culture, when we automatically reject every Government initiative and offer little for the public good in its place. We must stop being dragged, kicking and protesting toward in-evitable change and instead take an active and constructive part in it. A tall order? I am convinced that next January, whether we have the change of a new Administration or the continuation of Republican government, the business contribution to American government can be transformed. Business men and women can, as citizens, join as builders of a society in which-without loss of freedom or incentive—there can be better products, broader justice deeper and more widespread opportunity for everyone. The executives; their corporations and the Government they belp might even start getting some credit for it. But the real profit will go to the American people.

Edgar M. Bronfman is the chairman and chief executive officer of the Seagram Company Ltd. He was one of three hosts (along with Coca Colo's J. Poul Austin and Henry Ford 2d) who, immediately following the Demo-cratic National Convention, "introduced" Jimmy Corter to 52 prominent United States business executives at a luncheon in New York City.

The Political Bestiary

By Russell Baker

The Ape Man had been restless ever since Jane bad insisted on moving to the political jungle. He missed those long evenings on the veld with Simba the Lion. He missed the tree house with its natural cooling. He missed the rapid-transit system which sped him swiftly on vines to his daily work of routing vicious elephant bunters.

The nightly three martinis which preceded dinner in his new split-level clouded his head and, as a man whose English was limited to a few grunted monosyllables, the task of mastering an entirely new bestiary was almost more than he could bear. It irritated him that the king of the political jungle was not Simba the Lion, or Elbert the Elephant, but Gerald the Fordopotamus.

Jane labored patiently to speed his adjustment. Every evening after the martinis, tha frozen burgers and the California port, she would say. "All right, we'll take it from the top once more. Who are you?"

And the Ape Man would say, "Me

Tarzan." "And who am I?"

"You Jane." "Who are we?" "Me Tarzan. You Jane."

"And who is the king of the political jungle?" 'Simba tha Lion?"

"No, Tarzan."

"Elbert the Elephant?" And very patiently Jane would grind her teeth and say, 'The king of the political jungle is Gerald the Fordopotamus." One evening after this nightly scena Tarzan found new speech. Tarzan no like Fordopotamus," he said, Jane was shocked, As Lord Greystoke, heir to the aristocratic Grey-stoke grouse estates, she pointed out, Tarzan should be out in the jungle laboring to keep the Fordopotamus from being boisted ont of his mud. "Fordopotamus like mud?" asked Tarzan.

Jane explained that the Fordopotamus liked things just the way they were. The Fordopotamus did not like to move and did not like anything else to move either, which meant that so long as he was king of the political jungle, there was no danger of having the Greystoke fortune wasted on foolish motion such as the elusive Jimcat proposed. "Jane mean tomcat," said Tarzan. "No, Tarzan. All the animals in the political jungle are different. I am talking about the Jimcat" "How Tarzan tell Jimcat from splitlevel house cat?" asked the Ape Man.

"The Jimcat is fuzzy about the issues and hard to pin down," said Jane. "Jane crazy," said Tarzan, "Cat not have issues. Have litters."

And Tarzan went to bed in disgust He was awakened by a reverberation which shook his four-poster. "Goodness," sald Jane, "that must be Bob the Doloceros charging the house."

"Rhinoceros bad." said Tarzan. "But Bob the Doloceros is good," said Jane. "He is only charging the .-house to get under the Jimcat's skin." Jane and Tarzan looked out the window and saw two creatures. The Doloceros had its horn deeply embedded in the carriage lamp and the other was grinning in at the Ape Man in an awesome display of teeth. Jane was ec-

"It's the Rockedile," she said. "Bob the Doloceros and Nelson the Rockedile are here to tell us how important it is to keep the Fordopotamus from being hoisted out of the mud." Tarzan opened his throat and uttered his fierce call to summon all the creatures of the jungle. The Rockedile replied with a raised middle finger but his gesture was too late. All the creatures of the jungle, sensing that there was at least one person awake, were already surrounding the area.

Soon Walt the Fritzmunk, Pat the Girmoyniraffe, Abe tha Beamadillo and Bella the Abaconda were clamoring for the Ape Man to come out and be stroked. The noise ceased immediately when a glowing set of teeth illuminated the night. It was the Jimcat. Tarzan noted his blue eyes, gentle smile and fuzzy issues.

"Speak to him, Tarzan," whispered Tarzan obeyed. "Me Tarzan," he

"Tarzan good," said the Jimcat. "Woman Jane," said Tarzan,

"Jane good," said the Jimcat. "Tar-zan good, Everybody good." 'Jimcat crazy," Tarzan whispered to Jane, but he was drowned by a thunderous bray from the mudhole. It came nearer. "Jimcat big spender!" the voice was saving.

"Oh, Tarzan!" cried Jane. "The Fordopotamus is coming right berel" Tarzan raced to the top of the house, seized the television aerial and swung off into the night in search of help. He fell to the concrete sidewalk and was lying unconscious when the Fordopotamus arrived. Being unconscious, he missed the splendid debate among the creatures of the jungle about which of them, after being elected, would provide the finest medical care.

Waiting Room Only

By Harry Schwartz

LONDON-In Clitheroe, a town in Lancashire, there is an unhappy Englishwoman who has been waiting since September 1957 for Britain's National Health Service to provide ber with an orthopedic operation.

In the city of Accrington, adults seeking an appointment with a healthservice ear, nose and throat specialist were recently being offered appointments for about June 1978-although Accrington children can get appointments to see similar specialists within six months.

These dismaying, if extreme, cases are the first results of a contest the British magazine World Medicine is running to find the National Health Service patient who has waited longest for a needed appointment with a specialist. The point of tha contest is to publicize the wide discrepancy between many British communities' needs for medical services and the inadequate, resources, available to meet those needs.

The British Department of Health and Social Security (London's partial equivalent of Washington's Department of Health, Education and Wel-fare) has reported that last year the situation got worse, in part because of a widespread doctors' strike. The number of National Health Service hospital inpatients treated in 1975 was the lowest since 1968 and decreased by over 4 percent compared with 1974. The number of patients waiting for admission rose by over 12 percent and was the highest since 1948.

These figures raise the question of what good is a Government's promise of "free medical care" if for many people that care is unavailable when they want it, No one in Britain denies that this is the situation in this country today, and that the bright hopes of 1948 that the National Health Service could give everyone all the medical care required have proved illusory. Instead, the emphasis is all on the need for rationing medical care, for cutting costs and resources, for deciding better priorities on who should get, and who should be refused, care.

A byproduct of this atmosphere is the optimistic outlook among those in the business of providing private medical care in England. Whether one visits Wellington Hospital-the most expensive private bospital in Britain, which has more and better equipment than many much larger public hospitals-or talks to the executives of BUPA-roughly the British equivalent. of Blue Cross — the mood is upbeat. There are millions of Britons who are fed up with the waits and delays of

told, and as soon as Whitehall relaxes the present strict wage controls, thousands of additional British companies are going to make private medical care available to their workers.

What all this means in human terms becomes apparent when one visits St. Thomas's Hospital, tha world-famous teaching hospital. There the facts of British medical life are explained by Mrs. Joyce Higgins, the admissions officer, who seems to possess an inexhaustible flow of statistics.

At the moment, according to Mrs. Higgins, St. Thomas's has 3,500 people on its waiting list, but judging by ex-perience most of them will aever be admitted. The reason is that the hospi-tal's 850 beds are simply madequate to satisfy the demand. To handle tha situation, patients on the waiting list are classified into three main groups, "urgent," "soon," and "in turn." It is the members of the last group who are most likely never to he admitted.

Mrs. Higgins put the essence of the matter in these vivid words: "The closer to death you are, the better chance you have of getting a bed." But even the "urgent" group patients may have to wait up to six months to be admitted. Her biggest problem, Mrs. Higgins said, was a large group of urological patients for whom re-sources are especially inadequate. Many of these people have visible blood in their urine but cannot be properly examined or treated for months, unless their condition deteriorates visibly and dramatically.

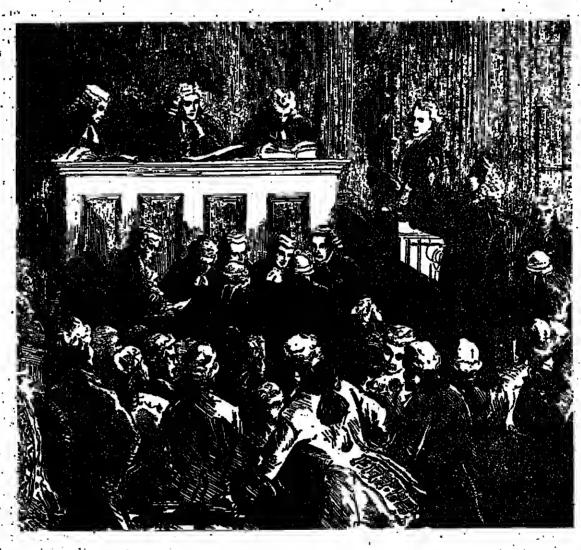

But there is a special group of patients who get exceptional consideration, Mrs. Higgins said. These are women who have palpable lumps in their breast. Any such woman applying for admission can be seen and examined within a month at most.

When asked wby Britons put up with such long delays or the complete denial of admissions, Mrs. Higgins suggested that her countrymen are phlegmatic and accustomed to waiting, as in the queues at bus stops.

It is these long waits for admission into N.H.S. hospitals that explain the great emotional and political passions that have been invested recently in the national battle over pay beds. Private patients can "jump the queue" by engaging their physician for a private fee and paying the full cost of the bed and hospital medical service. The Labor Party wants to wipe out these pay beds, but they still exist.

In St. Thomas's Hospital they are on the top floor of the hospital's newest building and each private room commands a breathtaking view of London. Most of the private patients observable there were apparently foreigners.

TOTAL U.S.

AND THAT'S ONLY PART OF THE STORY.

Trendex tells you the whole story.

You know how Trendex works. It's an independent survey of 71,000 U.S. households, done on a national probability basis. A cross-section of every market you sell. It tells you who buys what. And when.

And now, for the first time, you can compare first-marriage households vs. total households.

The champ? The bride-to-be. For product after product, she's the most efficient customer you can reach anywhere.

Look at the facts. October through December 1975, the acquisition rate of ranges by brides* was 4 times that of total households. And for the six months from July through December 1975, the rate of first-time marriage households who acquired blenders was 9 times the acquisition rate of total households. For irons, it was 11 times. For table mixers, over 7.

Trendex proves it. It's the bride-to-be who does the big buying. And that makes perfect marketing sense.

The girl getting married for the first time has nothing. Needs everything. That's why brides spend more in a shorter period of time than any other group measured by Trendex.

Let Trendex prove it to you. You can't find a better customer anywhere. And you reach her in Modern Bride. The one magazine read by eight out of every ten girls passing through the bridal market.

PLAINS, Ga., Sept. 18-Lillian Carter's memories of her Peace Corps stint in Vikhroli include working long hours in the bealth clinic mingling with all classes of people, attending weddings and folk festivals, and participating in community projects.

Her first view of the village came on a hot atternoon in the middle of the dry season, when she encountered 10 women squatting around gas stoves making bread. Naked children who were running around became frightened at her appearance.

For three months, she related in an interview, she assisted on a birth-control project, visiting bomes to discuss contraception with women. Finding this largely futile, she asked to be transferred to the clinic. There she spent the rest of her service giving shots, up to 150 a day, dressing wounds and aiding with emergencies. On Saturdays she helped in the vasectomy clinic.

Her supervising doctor, she said, "at first thought I was a C.I.A. agent." She added: "I didn't know very much what that was at the time—people in generall knew very little about the C.I.A."

Among ber other activities, she at-tended a weekly! Hindu discussion group at the invitation of the all-male members. "I was told by the Peace Corps not to discuss religion or poli-tics," she said, "so my tongue was fied. I sat cross-legged and listened to the teacher, a man scated on a stool. basins," she went on.

She lived in a three-story adohe flet she describes as "plain but adequate, with an American toilet that I don't think I could have done without."

Of the distressing conditions of life for the masses, she commented: "I had

Shortly after his remarks, Mayor

Young boarded the first of three trol-leys for his ineugural ride along with the United States Secretary of Trans-portation, William T. Coleman; the General Motors Corporation chairman, Thomas Murphy; the Chrysler Corpora-tion-chairman, John J. Riccardo, and a host of other guests and ordinary citizens.

As the electric-powered cars, each packed to capacity, slowly rolled down the street and back, some youngsters, unfamiliar with such transportation modes, stared in near amazement,

After this week, the Washingtoo Boulevard Trelley will cost 25 cents for the maximum nine-hlock ride.

While the start of trolley service may hold special significance for the future of this street, it has even greater sig-nificance from a global perspective in terms of what Detroit officials are terms of what Detroit officials are trying to overcome—the Image of a dying city, an image shared by most hig cities.

The trolley is positive news against a background of fiscal problems, crime waves, education program cutbacks and an unemployment level that is still far from satisfactory.

And it comes on the heels of several other announcements here, that the Mayor hungry for good news, can easi-ly classify as good news.

Last week the Ford Motor Company announced that it was moving 1,000 employees to the Renaissance Center, the cornerstone of the revitalization of this city's downtown area, from its suburban offices in Dearboro. The move will be made next fall.

Convention ceoter officials, after acknowleding last month that inquiries bad been made about the safety of meeting there following disturbances at Cobo Hail, reported last week that bookings were up. And the Detroit Plaza Hotel, a component of the Reoeissance Center, topped out its building last week with assurance that it would be opening next spring and ready for those visitors.

If only for a few minutes, es the inaugural run of tha trolleys unloaded its guests, the city was able to relive a part of its past that made it a charm, in hopes that it can do it once again.

Kermit Bloomgarden, Producer DR ROBERT PHILLIPS, Of Many Outstanding Plays, Dead LED CHOLERA FIGHT

By ALBIN KREES

Kermit Bloomgarden, an accountant turned producer who brought to Broadway many distinguished plays, including "Death of a Salesman," "Look Homeward, Angel." "The Music Man" and "Equus," died yesterday at his home in New York City at the age of 71.

Mr. Bloomgarden had been suffering from a hrain tumor for more than six months; but bad continued to work. Last week he attended rebearsals for "Equus," which will reopen soon on Broadway, and he was also active in production planning for the forthcoming drama "Poor Murderer."

Mr. Bloomgarden was considered hy many in the theater to be what one director yesterday called "the perfect producer—one who stands aside and understandingly lets the artists do their jobs, interfering as little as possible."

The Brooklyn-born Mr. Bloomgarden once put the matter in his own way: "A producer is a man who throws out sparks that will stimulate the author and director to make better use of their own creativity, rather than as a dictator who gives literal orders which, if followed, will often kill the quality of the play." Forn on Dec. 15, 1904, Mr. Bloongar den was the son of Zemad and Annie Groden Bloomgarden. He attended Brooklyn schools and graduated as an accounting major from New York University in 1926. He worked as a certified public accountant until 1932, when, at a dinner party, he met Arthur Beckhard, a Broad-way producer, who convinced him, Mr. Bloomgarden recalled, that "the theater was for me."

Associated With Hellman Plays

After serving as Mr. Beckhard's general manager, Mr. Bloomgarden, in 1935, began a 10-year association, as general manager, with Herman Shumlins production organization. During the period he was associated with the presentation of several successful plays by Lillian Heliman, including "Tha Children's Hour,"
"The Lattle Foxes," "Watch an the Rhine" and "The Searching Wind." Later he pro-

thought it would make money, and that was a miserable failure."

There were more failures, but far more hits, to come. Between September 1955 and the following May, Mr. Bloomgarden, alone or in association with others, presented four major productions. First there was Mr. Miller's "A View his second wife, the former Virginia From the Bridge," a modest success, Kaye. The state's small wineries say they have long considered the S.L.A. more

The smallest icty in New York Stata won a victory yesterday against one of the higgest public utilities in the state when the Public Service Commissinn agreed to let Sherrill (population 3,000) set up its own power company. In the process, the utility, Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, is losing one of its largest customers.

Niagare Mohawk, which serves about 1.3 million customers in 37 upstate counties, had charged last July that Sherrill, in Oneida County, was attempting to "pirate" away one of its major customers, Oneida Ltd., tha manufacturer of silverware and flat-

The transfer would be imdertaken through the Sherrill-Kenwood Power and Light Company, a subsidiary of Niagara Mohawk, which supplies Oneida with power and will now be taken over by the city with a $1.5 million bond issue.

Demonstrators Block East Meadow Traitic

A demonstration by 50 housewives and children stopped traffic in East Meadow, L.I., several times yesterday morning on Hempstead Turnpike. Nassau County policemen held back cars as the demonstrators marched at the Prospect Avenue intersection, near the spot where 14-year-old Deborah Kap-lita was struck and killed by a passing car June 9.

The girl's mother, Kathleen Kaplita of East Meadow, who organized the picketing, said she had gathered 3,000 signatures on petitions asking the State Transportation Department to lower the 50 miles an hour speed limit and post "school zone" signs on the turnpike, between Merrick Avenue and Bellmore Avenue, where local children frequently cross to reach three local schools. Another daughter, 16-year-old Mary-ann Kaplita, was hit hy a car three years ago at Hempstead Turnpike and Prospect Avenue, but survived after suffering a concussion.

Bergman Move Awaited

A stay of a one-year state sentence given Bernard Bergman for bribery expired yesterday, but because the nurs-ing-home operator is serving a fourmonth Federal prison term for tax and Medicaid fraud, there was no immediate effect.

Gustave Newman, one of Mr. Bergman's attorneys, and Charles J. Hynes, the state's special prosecutor for nursing-horse cases, appeared in State Supreme Court and agreed that a continuance of the stay would be "academic." Mr. Hynes repeated that he would not drop state fraud charges against Mr. Bergman and Mr. Bergman's son Stan-ley until he had seen what action Mr. Bergman's attorneys took.

College Construction

Raiph G. Caso, the Nassau County Executive, said that $35 million would be appropriated by the county to com-plete five major construction projects at the Nassau Community College at Mitchel Field in Garden City, L.L. Work on two instructional wings, a library. an administration huilding and a physi-cal education huilding was halted last November when the State Dormitory Authority was unable to sell the nec-essary bonds to finance the completion of the work. The state agency has al-ready spent $35 million, or about half the total cost, on the projects.

5 Homes Broken Into

Burglars broke into five homes in the axclusive Belle Haven section of Green-wich, Conn., during the weekend, es-caping with an undetermined amount of valuables, the police said. Among the missing items were a sterling silver-service valued at $2,000 and cars from two homes, authorities said. Other silver items, gold bracelets and rings also were reported missing in the break-ins Friday and Saturday evenings. The police said that in four of the five cases tha homes had been entered by breaking a glass door or window and reaching through to open the door. In the fifth house the burglars entered through an unlocked door. None of the homes was occupied at the time, officials sald.

Patricia Stanley, 24-year-old mother of five children, was arrested on charges of fraudulently obtaining $20,-000 in welfare payments. Investigation Commissioner Nicholas Scoppetta said. Mrs. Stanley, of 1378 Park Place in Brooklyn, had used eight aliases to obtain illegal payments from five different Brooklyn welfare centers.

Adult Home for Chinese Is First of Its Kind

By JUDITH CUMMINGS

Chinatown is one of the most crowded communities in New York. Staten Island is one of the least. Small wonder, then, that to about 50 elderly former Chinatown residents a new adult home set in among the tall trees and Victorian houses of St. George, S. L. is a rather special place.

The operators of the modern sevenstory residence, which sponsored a kind of open house yesterday, say the 400-bed home is the first in the nation especially designed for elderly persons of Oriental descent.

That means, for example, that Chinese meals are served along with American-style, that Chinatown newspapers are provided, and that Chinese music is played in a recreation room where men sit intent over mah-jongg.

Home Opened in June

The Anna Erika Home for Adults, at 110 Henderson Avenue, was opened in June and is not quite 20 percent oc-cupied with 76 residents, about twothirds of them Chinese, according to Joseph F. Sirangelo, administrator and one of the owners.

An adult home provides a residence and meals for older persons who are in good health and do not require the medical attention of a nursing home. Eighty-five-year-old Pong Yine sat gazing out of a large window in a breeze-freshened two-person room. Like most of the residents, though he had lived and worked in Manhattan for decades, he spoke English with diffi-thing he never did in Chinatown.

Another longtime Chinatown resident, Fu Dong, visiting his wife, told a stranger that he had watched the streets grow too dangerous for her to live comfortably at home.

"It started, I tell you, in 1950," he said. "So much fighting—the young people—bang, hang, bang." Here, everything is better. That's the United States Country."

Nathan Berger, director of the bor-ough office of the city Department of the Aging, said neighborhood residents had been uphappy about the building of the facility on what had been a vacant lot, but that they had been somewhat soothed by promises from the operators not to seek former mental patients, as some other adult homes do.

Though Mr. Sirangelo employs a coordinator to recruit residents from Chinatown, he sair be also hopes to serve people from Staten Island. Gloria O'Donnell, a social worker at Doctors' Hospital, who was checking nut the home for potential referrals, liked the facility but had doubts about the concept.

"They're going to bave trouble filling it up," she said. "This is a predominantly Italian-American community, and I would have second thoughts about sending Italian-Americans there. I'd be afraid they might not be com-

A Designer Gets Ahead Of Himself

Karl Lagerfeld at Saks Fifth Avenue with mannequin in one of his snugwaisted styles, a silk taffeta skirt and blouse.

Karl Lagerfeld pulled up to Saks Fifth Avenue in a taxi yesterday and looked at the clothes in the windows. They looked vaguely familiar. It took him a few moments to realize why: He bad designed them.

He did it in April, wheo his fall collection for Chloe was shown in Paris. Now his mind is already racing to spring and summer clothes, the collection that is being put together to be shown oext month.

"I'm interested in what I am doing "I'm interested in what I am doing and what I will do, oot what I have done," he explaided, his mind flicking back to Paris as he strolled through the Chloé houtique at Saks, where dresses for $1,150 were selling as quickly as, say, $49 styles elsewhere.

"If dresses are going to be tighter, then I will have to have more rehearsals," be said. Sougger clothes means that the manoequins who show them will have to be fitted more precisely, he explained.

Saks Fashion Show Today.

Saks Fashion Show Today

Clothes will be tighter, at least around the waist, be observed as he settled into a fitting room and checked some styles that a mannequin will wear at a fashioo show in the store today for the benefit of the Society of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. He had anticipated the current vogue for sashed waistlines and taffeta skirts last April.

"You have to put it in the cootext of today," he went on. "You can't have bones and wires—you must find other ways to make torsos shapely."

One way that involves him is to design in two layers; one snug, the other oversize. The problem then is to keep everything light.

"Not with linings," he said. "If we go back to linings, then we are returning to the way things were, not looking ahead."

Wore Two Raincoats

Receotly, he hought a raincoat for himself in Paris from Kenzo's men's collection. He liked the look, but it seemed rather filmsy. So he hought another raincoat, the identical style, and wore one over the other.

"I met Kenzo in the street, and he didn't even recognize his coat," Lagerfeld said triumphantly.

The two raincoats are a clue to how he will design clothes that have more shape hut remain io a modern idiom.

Mr. Lagerfeld has done a lot to mold that idiom. A designer's designer, he is watched carefully for his innovations, which are as technical as finding ways to avoid linings, eliminating seams whenever possible and finishing hems turned-under hems. All this in the interest of keeping clothes light and hridges between the haute couture world (he calls it "high fashion") and the world of ready-to-wear. Despite his very high prices, Mr. Lagerfeld's clothes are ready-to-wear. A lot of his experimentation is in the area of finding ways to make clothes fit a great many different figures without the luxury, to a designer, of two or three fittings.

The prospect of a closer fit provides Mr. Lagerfeld with a whole new set of

It's one, he's equipped to handle, having started working in fashion 22 years ago. He was 16 years old then, and had woo a design competition sponsored by the International Wool Bureau. (His 'prize was for the best coat suhmitted; Yves Saint Laurent won the prize for the best dress.)

As a result of that evect, Mr. Lagerfeld went to work for Pierre Ralman.

As a result of that event, Mr. Lager-feld went to work for Pierre Balmain as an assistant designer. "Yves was working for Dior." Mr. Lagerfeld said. "Other young people I knew were working with Balexclaga, whom they thought was God, but I wasn't so im-to Carnation.

In the early part of the 1960's, the ready-to-wear business was just beginning to develop stature in France, and Mr. Lagerfeld realized that was the field for him. He was introduced to the people who ran Chioé, started to do free-lance work for them and eventually became part of the team.

Now he is involved in a great many enterprises. There is a perfume called Chloe hrought out by Elizabeth Arden, which has just added soap and bath powder in the same sceot. He has franchises in Germany and Japao, and has-plans for a collection of clothes, "a little younger, a little less expensive," that will be ackl under the name of

"Wheo people ask me what I do, 'designer' seems inadequate," he said.
"I tell them I'm in the fashion husiness. But that is what happens with readyto-wear. You become an enterprise."

As far as designing, "You can't intellectualize it," he said. "You read

Mr. Levine is not fond of lawyers, but he says he does "love to teach and explain things." So, another of his reasons for filtting oo the seminar is that. "For someone at my age, when you've experienced just about everything, you like to feel needed and doing something that is important to somehody—to a lot of people."

Says He Made Mistakes

Among the thistakes Mr. Levine believes he made in his own divorces are having picked the wrong lawyer, a specialist in real estate rather than divorce, baving been overly generous and trusting toward "the other side," and having been subjected to what he regards as shifting definitions of presumption of adultery.

"I use personal anecdote," Mr. Levine said, describing the seminar style that might be displayed in other arenas if the Madison Square Garden event satisfies him. "I'm going to show how everything I did was wrong, how everything I did was wrong, how everything to give the people—through my personal anecdotes—my experiences, so they'll learn a lesson. If I told them what I did right, they'd fall askeep."

Since his divorces, Mr. Levine has discovered, that a lot of people are also divorted. He's dated some of them, he said, and listened to their stories.

tion through their interest and curiosity. Shop Has a Library

"People come in and talk about plants -and we have done a tremendous amount of research," Mr. Pritchard said. "We also learn an awful lot about plants from little old ladies with greeohouses," he added. The shop maintains a reference library on plant resources and plant care.

That kind of information, Mr. Pritchard feels, is sprely lacking at stores.

"A lnt of people have been badly burned," he said, "A friend of mine spent $2,000 on plants for his apartment and, today, he has nothing to show for it.

"Just like the fast-food industry," Mr. Pritchard continued, "there is a fast-plant industry. Plants are grown under ideal cooditions in the full sun. Then, they are trucked up from Florida and wherever else they have been thriving and sold quickly. They haven't had a chance to acclimate. As soon as they are moved into the house or apartment, where conditions are less than ideal, the plant drops its leaves and often dies."

The store also specializes in plants that do well io apartments. While one wnuldn't expect to find the lowly philodendron at Mädderlake, the aroid family is well represented here. "Philodeodrons are a commoo arold," Mr. Pritchard said, "but there are many other varieties that are very decorative and thrive in low light cnoditions."

Also a Piant Hospital

Mādderlake tries to keep lts stock long ecough for it to adjust to its new environment and has a sort of a plant-hospital on the second floor and the roof where it resuscitates thuse varieties that are rare ennugh to save. Because of such tenderloving-care, Mädderlake's prices for some varieties are high, but for the common seasocal type of plants its prices are comparable with the better uptown shops.

The shop's formal bours are from nnnn to 9 P.M. seveo days a week, but It's commo to find the shap open until midnight some evenings. That's because both the nwners and employees have made the shop ioto a way of life. In between waiting no customers, they might mix a salad or share a glass nf wine with customers while exchanging plant talk. "We wanted a place where penple would drop by and spend some time," Mr. Pritchard said.

That approach prompted the shop's most unusual service. One can rent it for the evening and have a private, catered dinner party.

"One night, I looked in the window and the ship was all misty and lush, and I thought, wouldn't it be fun in clinse the doors, set up a table and have dinner here," Mr. Pritchard said. "People were lined up four deep to peek in the windows," Mr. Pritchard recalled, although the windows were screened with bamboo blinds and plaots for the occasioo.

"All you could see were the jewels glittering," said Alan Boehmer, who cooked the pig, which was trucked over to the store from his kitchen in a nearby brownstoce. The secood private dinner, a birthday party, was booked by an opera singer for her party of four.

The affair runs at $100 a person and Mädderlake supplies everything right down to Mr. Pritchard's owo personal china, glassware and table napkins. The food is supposed to be extraordinary and, if it is, people will soon have a chance to judge that themselves. Mådderlake's next venture is a restaurant for which the owners are nnw looking for a suitable location, perferably close to the plant store.

By WILLIAM N. WALLACE Special to The New York Times

BLOOMINGTON, Minn., Sept. 20-Should the nine quarterbacks in the Pro Football Hall of Fame meet at a symposium some time they would agree about two qualities, patience and greed, the former being essential in playing this game and the latter the enemy. But could they agree on a definition of greed? Did Francis Tarkenton, who will be in the Hall of Fame some day too, fall victim to greed in the 74th minute of the Los Angeles-Minnesota game here at 6:05 P.M. yesterday? Tarkenton had the Vikings on the Rams' 11-yard line with a first down and the score tied, 10-10.

Otto Graham, who took strict or-ders from his coach, Paul Brown. would have run Marion Motley into the line for two plays, called time out with 12 seconds left and then let Lou Groza kick a field goal to win the game. Some of the other famous ones probably would have done the same with Dutch Clark, Bobby Layne and Bob Waterfield entrusting the field goal kick only to themselves.

Tarkenton threw a pass on first down which was intercepted at the Rams' I-foot line by Rick Kay, the new Los Angeles linebacker whom the Minnesota quarterback had exploited throughoot the game. The Rams beld the ball for three more plays, gaining two yards but not giving up a safety, until time ran out, ending the overtime period and a great game which wound up in a deadlock.

So Fred Cox, the 37-year-old field-goal kicker who did not miss from in-side the 40-yard line last season or so far this season and who has won dozens of games for Minnesota over the last 13 years, had no chance to

Leary of Blocked Field Goal Never at a loss for an answer, Tarkenton was ready with an explanation a few-minutes later in the Viking locker room. He said, "I don't know if there is a sure way to win a football game. We had just blocked their field goal." Nate Allen's right hand got in the way of a 30-yard attempt by Tom Dempsey of the Rams which Dempsey said was kicked 'dead center."

Tarkenton went on. 'I just felt the Tarkenton went on. "I just test the way we were moving the ball we should try a couple of plays before going for the field goal. The pass play that was called was a high percentage one and Sammy [White, the intended receiver] had his man [Rod Perry] beaten. I just didn't see Kay. He had drifted back into the pass pattern." drifted back into the pass pattern."
Kay said, "I was looking right at him."

Apart from the execution, who was to say that Tarkenton's play selection was wrong? Not Cox, the kicker, and not Bud Grant, the coach who bas seen Tarkenton win a lot of games by taking

"It didn't work," sald Grant of the pass play. "There's nothing that says HOW you bave to score. It's just that you do score. And we didn't. A safe play would have been to throw out of bounds maybe. Both teams had their chances to win and should have. If any game should end in a tie it was this Cox said, "Everybody will be second-guessing Francis. But his job is to score. I'm sure he made the right call.

Nothing is a sure thing, certainly not a field goal from any distance."

This was the second game that ended in a tie since the National Football League instituted the sudden death. overtime period at the start of the 1974 season. Later that year Denver and Pittsburgh played to a 35-35 tie.

The deadlock should make little difference to the Rams or Vikings, who both won 12 out of 14 games last year, because they have weak opposition within their own divisions and are expected to qualify for the playoffs for the fourth straight year without strain. The Vikings play at Detroit on Sunday while the Rams meet the Giants at home. It's hard to say when Pat Haden will next play because Ron Ja-worski will have healed and is to start at quarterback against the Giants. The 23-year-old Haden had a fine N.F.L. debut under stressful conditions. He was impressed by the thundering hoofs around him. "I'm stunned," he said, stunned by the intensity of the game. I felt the enjoyment and agony of the fans. Im sure they got their money's worth as we were very successful entertainers today."

Plays Called From Sideline

Haden, or Jaworski, may never have the opportunity to make a decision like Tarkenton's because the Rams and many other teams have an assistant coach in the press box calling the plays, a policy deplored by Hall of Fame quarterbacks. Ken Meyer, a Ram assistant on the sidelines, signaled the play call to Haden with exaggerated hand and feet signals.

"I just took the plays from the side-lines like I was a batter looking at the third base coach," said Haden.

Rangers Update Uniforms And Game, Too, They Hope

Like the losing gambler who requests new cards or dice, the New York Rangers changed their uniform yesterday. It will be introduced Oct. 6, when they open the National Hockey League season against Minnesota at Madison Square Garden.

The colors of the home and road outfits remain white, blue and red, but styling is updated. One detail, wide stripes along the shoulders and down the arms, is supposed to make a hockey player appear taller.

John Ferguson, the general manager and coach, was realistic enough to recognize the tall story as ludicrous. so he supplemented it with a promise that the uniforms would be filled with better men.

Similar assurance came from Pbil-Esposito, the captain and center ac-quired in a stunning trade with Boston

Esposito Says They're Ready

"This bockey club is in super shape," Espo said. "They look like they're in midseason condition. The guys are men-tally prepared, and they'll be even better prepared when the season

The occasion for all the brave talk was a press luncheon at the Garden where the uniforms were modeled not where the uniforms were modeled not by live players, but by dummies.

The name "Rangers," which had stretched from the right shoulder to the left hip, is replaced by the familiar club crest with the complete name "New York Rangers" embroidered on

it. The pants have a flared white stripe on the side, the optical equivalent to bell-bottom slacks. In a preluncheon talk with sports writers, Esposito dwelt not only on the players' fine physical condition, but on their change from the fat-cat attitude of recent years—players who were overpald and undertalented. Now, he said, they have pride and desire.

And new strength. On Espo's right wing this season is Ken Hodge, his old buddy from Boston. The team also has acquired a policeman, a combative left wing named Nick Fotiu. Espo said Fotiu would "not let anybody on this club take any guff" from the opposition, and Fergy noted Fottiu would "get us some respect" in the league. Along with the fresh uniforms, the Rangers have something else that's new—beards, which Fergy's predeces-sor, Emile Francis, had prohibited. Ferguson recognizes their incentive value.

"If the guys perform," he said, "they can keep the beards."

Arnsparger Isn't Read To Break Up the Gia

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y., Sept. 20-Bill Arnsparger won't break up the.

"We'll kill that one hefore it starts," said the coach today of the possibility that wholesale changes would be made after the team's second disappointing

"I like the players I have," Arnspar-ger said during intermission in a Tim-ing of the Giants' 20-7 loss yesterday at Philadelphia. It like the squad we have, the lineup we have. There may be a change someplace because of an injury, but that's all."

Arnsparger wants to give Ron-Miko-lajczyk, who started in place of the injured Al Simpson, another shot at left guard next Sunday in Los Angeles against the Rams. "We might have made that change too hastily." he said about having replaced Mikolajczyk late in the second quarter with Karl Chan-dler the center. dier, the center.

Not Giving Up on Mik

Not Giving Up on Mik

Maybe, because Ralph Hill, who took over at center, was guilty of a holding penalty, negating a completion to Walker Gillette that would have given the Giants a first down on the Eagles' 3-yard line when they trailed by only 13-0 midway through the third quarter.

"There's nothing I saw in the films that whild make me give no on Mik," said Arnsparger of the 6-foot-3-inch, 275-pound lineman acquired two weeks ago from Oakland. "He's whaf I want, what we need He just hasn't been with its long enough."

Mik hasn't been with the team long enough to be one of the "same old Giants," a phrase made popular over the years by the team's losing close ones to good opponents (19-17 to the Redskins) and then playin against bad teams (like the I "I don't buy that kind of t sparger said. "I'm going to right now that any resem-tween this team and the t I first came here [1974] or iast year is that they still the New York Gients.

Grambling's Tokyo Bill Won't Be Sent to Loui:

By GORDON S. WHITE Jr. Grambling and Morgan State, two of the best known predominantly black college football teams, are exporting their game. They will meet Friday night in Tokyo's Korakuen Stadium, a 50,000-seat arena that is the home field for the College Tokyo Yomiuri Giants, a baseball team. This will be Sports the first regular-season American college football game to be played outside Notes. the Western Hemisphere.

When the Japanese promoters of the game invited Grambling and Morgan State to move their game, some Louisiana authorities became concerned over the cost of the trip to Grambling's athletic department. Dr. William Arceneaux, chairman of the Louisiana Board of Regents, said yesterday that Grambling was permitted to go to Tokyo "provided no state funds be used." Speaking by phone from his Baton Rouge office, Dr. Ar-ceneaux said Dr. Ralph W. E. Jones, president of Grambliog, assured Louisiana officials that "other groups would pay the expenses of the trip.".

Grambling State University Is one of the Louisiana state public colleges and Morgan State University is a Mary-land public Institution in Baltimore. They were originally scheduled to meet Sept. 4 at a neutral site in the United States. Grambling and Morgan State used to meet each year at Yankee Stadium in the New York Urban League charity game.

Louisiana education officials have recently expressed concern over the cost: of playing some football games. Dr. Arceneaux said, "The Board of Regents was very upset about guarantees for games. Some Louisiana colleges were guaranteeing a visiting team $50,000 to come and play while getting only $10,-,000 for the next year's game at the other team's field. We will only approve such guarantees now if such reciprocal agreements are equal."

Northeast Louisiana has been forced to cancel a game with University of the Pacific, and Southwestern Louisiana has been told to cancel a game with Southern Illinois because of unequal visiting-team guarantees. Dr. Arceneaux said that in the future the Louisiana Board of Regents will review any football cootracts with a guarantee involved.

National Collegiate Athletic Asso-ciation officials were not too bappy about the Tokyo game, but they could not do anything about it. The N.C.A.A. has a rule covering postseason games between two college football teams and invoked that rule a few years ago when it prohibited Oklahoma and Southern California from meeting is contest in Tokyo. But the . no rule to probibit two playing any where they v if the game is a scheduled regular football season.

Pittsburgh Falls, 5-4, on 2-Run, 2-Out Clout in 9th by Rookie

The sky fell down on the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday at Shea Stadium.

Seconds after Lee Mazzilli had belted a two-run homer with two out in the last of the ninth inning that lifted the Mets to a 5-4 victory, the Pirates seemed to have cement in their baseball shoes as they trudged off the field with their heads down, losers again to

The victory was New York's fifth in six games over the Pirates in one week. They had taken two games in Pittsburgh on Sept. 13 and 14. Yesterday's amazing triumph gave the Mets three victories in a four-game series here.

Once again the Mets smashed Pittsburgh's faint chances of overtaking the Philadelphia Phillies in the race for the title in the National League's Eastern Division. The Phils, who did not play yesterday, hold a 41/2-game lead with less than two weeks left to play.

"I guess I'll remember this a long said Mazzilli, a 21-year outfield er from Brooklyn who was the Mets' No. 1 choice in the free-agent draft in June, 1973. "I floated around the

Brewers Stop Yanks, 4-2; Nettles Hits 29th Homer

By MURRAY CHASS

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 20-The Milwankee Brewers gave the expiring Baltimore Orioles at least one extra day of life tonight and gave the Yankees additional time to ice their champagne.

The Brewers defeated the Yankees, 4-2, which means the Yankees will have to win two games to end the division race, instead of one, against the Orioles in their four-game series that starts at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night.

The Yankees already have the champagne stocked at the Stadium in anticipation of their first such celebration since 1964.

"It's domestic champagne," Manager Billy Martin said before the game. "I think we should use domestic rather than imported." Milwaukee built this victory hefore a crowd of about 2,500 faithful fans on the feats of a trio of players with interesting names.

Manager Alex Grammas then brought in Castro and he set down two more pinch-hitters—Cesar Tower on a strikeout and Elrod Hendricks on a fly ball.

Ken Holtzmao, who often has experienced one bad inning this season even in games he has won, didn't waste time encountering it tonight. The Brewers scored two runs in the first inning hefore two were out.

Ali's Chant: 'Norton Must Fall'

Muhammad Ali was shouting, "Norton must fall" and waving his right arm in a chanting motion. Soon all the spectators who had attended his workout at the Concord Hotel were shouting, "Norton must fall, Norton must fall," and the world heavyweight champion was conducting a rehearsal. "I want everybody at Yankee Stadium," he was saying now, "to yell on my call, Norton must fall, Norton must fall," and the people resumed their chants. Boxing'e doctor of crowd psychology wants to raise the odds against Ken Norton to 60,000 to 1 (from 8 to 5 as they are now) next Tuesday night. He's done it before. When be dethroned The Times George Foreman in Zaire, he had thousands chanting, "Ali, bomaye," meaning, "Ali, kill him." And in Manila a year ago he had people chanting, "Frazier must fall." Muhammad Ali never hothered with a chant for Richard Dunn or Jimmy Young or

Jean-Pierre Coopman — he didn't take them seriously. But obviously he is taking Ken Norton seriously. "That's gonna be the thing in Yankee Stadium," the champion was saying calmly now. "That'll affect any man." Muhammad Ali had returned to the quiet of his hig room

Three years ago Ali lost a 12-round split decision to Norton and suffered a broken jaw in San Deigo in their first fight. Then he earned a 12-round split decision in Los Angeles in the rematch six months later.
"But after that I found a heavy bag that didn't hurt my hands," All explained. "Most heavy bags are too hard be-cause they have sand inside them. Sand don't give. But this one has rags and material packed inside. I've taken it everywhere with me-to Zaire, to Malaysia, to Manila, everywhere. My hands don't hurt any more. I can set now. I can punch hard oow. Ken Norton is gonna be surprised."

In his workout Ali had dented the big black leather hag with thudding punches from a flat-footed stance.

"Muhammad needs more punching power," Dick Sadler had said as Ali trained, "to establish more command of the

Dick Sadler guided George Foreman to the heavyweight title hefore their breakup after the Zaire bout. Before that, Sadler trained Sonny Liston and Archie Moore and for a few days in 1960 he was around the young Cassius Clay, who had come to San Diego after winning an Olympic gold

"Dick Sadler," Ali proclaims, "is my special strategy coach, like he was in Manila."

All knows that Norton, like Frazier, remembers having heen knocked out by George Foreman, who was then under Sadler's intelage. Before the referee's instructions in the Manila bout, Ali and Sadler walked over by themselves to a neutral corner and stared at Frazier as the champion listened to the old trainer.

Tm Younger Than Him'

"I told him," Sadler had said at the workout, "that he had to dominate the fight. You know what Frazier is going to do before he does it. Through the first five rounds, Ali had an easy fight because he did dominate it. When he went on the rope-a-dope, he caught hell for the next five rounds. But then he came back."

Despite the danger of the rope-a-dope, Ali apparently won't resist the temptation to use it against Norton.

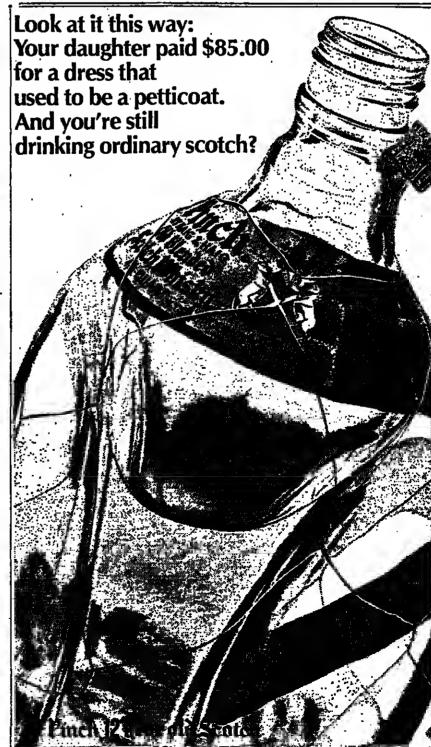

"I never did the rope-a-dope with him yet," the champion was saying now in his room. "Nortoo likes to put you in a corner and whale away. I'll get in a couple good shots and go on the rope-a-dope. He'll punch himself out."

Ali was watching a video cassette of Ken Norton's last fight, a 10th-round knockout of Larry Middleton, "See how open he is," Ali was saying. "Imagine me hittin' him when he's open like that. If he fought me like this, it'll be terrible. That's the way he stands, he can't change that. And he's 31 hut I'm younger than him." Ali, of course, is 34 years old oow but the champion had an explanation. "I'm extra super, I'm equal to 22," he said. "I'm so fast, I don't take much punishment. But he's really 31—look at him. The way he's throwing his hooks and jabs, look, right now, when he ducks up under me like that-oh, oh, oh, I'll knock him out. And with all the people hollerin'."

"You mean chantiog, Norton must fall."
"Now you talkin," Muhammad Ali said. "That's gonna be the thing in Yankee Stadium."

Wood, Field and Stream: Plaudits For a Book on Great Gull Island

From time to time, a splendid little book is born that comes so close to some of the truths one is seeking that one yearns to be eech the author to return to his desk, to travel farther along the dimly-lit trail to the cod.

Such a work is Michael Harwood's
"The View From Great Gull" (E.P. Dutton & Co., Ltd., 139 pp., illustrated, $8.95). But before discussing his work.
I would like to mention that volumes 2 and 3 of the Yale University Press "Handbook of North American Birds," which deal with waterfowl and which cost $30 each, are in my estimation the best single reference sources on the subject available, ao astonishing achievement and spleodid for an ornithologist or a serious student of ducks, geese and swans.

Now to Mr. Harwood. From April through September of 1974, he was a member of a volunteer crew working at the American Museum of Natural History's research station oo Great Gull, a 17-acre island in eastern Long Island Sound about nine miles from New Loodon and a nesting site for common and roseate terns. His book embraces the work with the birds, coosiderable history of the island and portraits of its human denizens past and presect, including the young, intense Helen Hayes, who is a former president of the Linnaean Society of New York and director of the Great Guli Island

Those who read the book will learn a great deal about terns. And here I cannot resist ao anecdote about my delightful and zany frieod, Ed Zern, who strolled down to the beach one morniog and began flinging pebbles in the air in the general direction of some terms, not, I assure, with eooogh accuracy or force to even disturb the bight but merely to set the stage for what follows.

We asked him what he was doing the replied that it was his policy reave no tern unstoned."

Harwood, who is also the author of View From Hawk Mountain," follows Zern's dictum in unscrambled form, Yet Zern's dictum in unscrambled form, Yet his book is not merely ornithological observations, history and character sketches, but also a seositive man's troubled awareoess that the human race has not yet been able to view itself with proper humility, has considered itself apart from the oatural scheme of things, at worst superior and a conqueror, at best an uncommitted observer.

There is bope, however. For many of us, when we are not caught up in the burly-burly of sheer survival or survival as we see fit to interpret it. sometimes sense that the tides of the ocean move in our blood, that the forces that affect the tern, the deer, the whale and the wolf affect us too.

This dreadful separateness that we bave so loog cherished is a self-deceit of cataclysmic import, and it is essen-tial to the survival of all living things that men like Harwood are probing, however tentatively, a way to eliminate civilization's greatest lie.

Flytying, backpacking and salling courses are being offered by the West Side YMCA, 5 West 63d Street.

Last year's program was so successful, spokesmen say, that it will be expanded, with courses also at the Vanderbilt 'Y' at 224 East 47th Street and the Stuyvesant Park at 207 East 16th Street.

Flytying will be taught by directors of Theodore Gordon Flyfishers. David Sutcliffe will be the instructor io the six-week backpacking course, which culminates in an overnight field trip.

Other offerings are a course in bicycle repair, and a chance to practice one's outdoor skills at the West Side's 500-acre woodland retreat in Pawling, N. V.

Some of the courses begin this week.

Defense was only half of the poor performance yesterday. The other half was the offense. And there continues to be concern over the running game, which was supposed to be anchored by Ed Marinaro. Marinaro says he needs to run 15 or 20 times a game. He doesn't get half that many chances, and when he has run, be has failed to pick up the yardege. Steve Davis, though, has done well and will be employed more in the future.

Marinaro insists that his body 'has Marinaro insists that his body 'has to get adjusted to running,' and he adds: "That's why I can't do well unless I run a lot. I don't feel comfortable, I don't find the holes."

Meanwhile, Holtz searches for a formula to end "a situation I never expected to be in."

"This whole thing is discombobulated," he says. "We need one hig play. But we never seem to get one."

Clifford Brooks, who joined the club last week and played strong safety against the Broncos, also has been cut. The New Yorkers are expected to recall Tom Marvaso, who had previously flunked his physical.

A phone call or visit to European-American can get you the best kind of credit there is. Pure bank credit.

We call it The Credit Account. It's a separate account. Separate from your checking account. Separate from all other accounts. It's straight credit, pure and simple. Easy to use. Easy to understand.

Just qualify and we'll make from $1,000 to $10,000 available to you. Then, whenever you need moneyfor any reason you choose-you've

The Credit Account is a lesson in using credit to your advantage.

The Credit Account helps you use credit right, because it's credit with built-in advantages.

Here are some of the ways to use credit as it ought to be used.

Use The Credit Account instead of loans. You'll pay lower interest than on almost any installment loan.

Use it to pay off other credit that costs you more in interest. Like many department store charge accounts, credit card accounts, and revolving credit accounts.

Use The Credit Account to organize and pay off all your credit through one inexpensive credit source. One source, so you can review your entire credit picture at a glance.

And remember this, too: unlike some other kinds of credit, The Credit Account costs you nothing until you use it. Not a cent.

Another advantage: privacy.

Once you have The Credit Account, why and when you need money be-comes what it should he. Your business. Not ours.

You only have to apply for the Account once. After that, there are no

By ALEXANDER R. HAMMER
Despite an early show of strength resulting from prime rate reductions by two major banks, the stock market closed mixed yesterday in slower trading.

At the close, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 6.59 point at 994.51, its low for the day. In the previous two sessions, the key barometer rose almost 16 points.

Meanwhile, advances on the New York Stock Exchange outnumbered declines by almost an 3-to-5 ratio and the exchange's index of all listed stocks finished at 56.74, its highest close since Nov. 5, 1973, when it ended at 57.40. Analysis of I.T.T. Bid for Carbon

By ROBERT METZ

Carbon Industries, a West Virginia coal company that the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation over the weekend said it would buy, opened after a delay yesterday at 38 on accumulated orders for 13,200 shares for an explosive gain over Friday's closing price on the American Stock Exchange of 221/4.

By the end of the day, 142,700 Carbon shares had traded, making the stock twice as active as its nearest Amer rival, and the price was 361/4, up 13%.

Such was the excitement over LTT.'s generous proposal that shares of Falcon Seaboard, another coal producer, gained 2 on the Amex to close at 261/4 on a 53,900-share turnover.

ing shares of Westmoreland Coal ended the day at 58½ bid, up from Friday's 56%.

Wall Street sources discounted the likelihood of bids for either company in the foreseeable future.

I.T.T. plans to exchange 0.85 share of its $4 Series K preference stock for each of Carbon's 5.2 million shares each of Carbon's 5.2 million shares outstanding, 39 percent of which are closely held, largely by members of the Thomas family of Charleston, W. Va.
At yesterday's closing price for the $4 preference shares of 55%, the Carbon shares would be worth approximately $47.50 if the deal went through as contemplated. Carbon shares did not advance even further yesterday because of doubts on the part of arbitrageurs and others that the Justice Department would permit the acquisition.

"We're talking about a timetable of "We're talking about a timetable of four to five months before approval, I would think," one professional hedger-said yesterday. "What's more, there is considerable downside risk if something should interfere with the deal-Carbon Industries" 1975 low was 9." Elsewhere in Wall Street there was some perplexity over the premium ITT. plans to pay. Joel Price, Dean; Witter & Company's coal analyst.

Witter & Company's coal analyst, thought that LT.T. was paying an ex-traordinary premium for Carbon's

Mr. Price said that he would assign value of 50 to 75 cents a ton for

Carbon industries' reserves of about 120 million tons of coal, two thirds of which is metallurgical and the rest

"At the most, figure $1 a ton and that is wild imagination," he added "Use that figure and you get a value of $120 million. Add Carbon's book value of $69 million and you get a quick appraisal of $190 million. It's very hard. to justify anything over $200 million, then, and LT.T. is paying $250 million."

By contrast, Mr. Price analyzed the earlier purchase of Y. & O. Coal by Pan Handle Eastern Pipe Line, which paid $75 million for Y. & O.'s 400 million tons of steam coal.

"If you figure 10 cents a ton [for the cheaper steam coal] that's $40 million," Mr. Price said. "The com-pany's book value was $50 million and that adds up to $90 million. That's $15 million more than Y. & O. got."

$15 million more than Y. & O. got."

Mr. Price wondered whether I.T.T. might be analyzing Carbon in terms of its excellent earnings of $4.39 a share in 1975, since the $11.4 billion conglomerate's offer would amount to only 11 times that figure. That would still rank above the highest earnings multiples in the industry, he said. He added that Carbon would likely earn no more than $250 a share this year because of wildcat work stoopages. The because of wildcat work stoppages. The entire industry faces a general strike by the United Mine Workers next year, he said.

"This is super for anyone who owns Carbon Industries," Mr. Price added. "For its part, LTT. would be getting a clean balance sheet—long-term debt was just $7.7 million at the end of last year, when Carbon had $47 million in cash an dequivalents.

Carbon signed a 15-year contract in 1974 with United States Steel, which agreed to take the company's West Virginia output or 65 percent of the 3 million tons Carbon sold in 1975. In exchange, U. S. Steel loaned Carbon $4.5 million without interest and repay-able between 1976 and 1991.

The new bonds, issued by the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company, sold slowly.

Against this background, the Treasury prepared to sell $2.5 billion of two-year notes today, and the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company got set to sell $100 million of 40-year bonds.

With the credit market's decline yesterday, the yields on both issues will doubtless be slightly higher than they would have been last Friday, when fixed-income issues were advancing strongly, some dealers suggested. Nevertheless, the yields on both the Treasury notes and the Bell System honds will be well below rates on similar issues offered to investors in recent meaths.

The Treasury's 6%'s of Aug. 30, 1978, declined in price yesterday enough to raise their yield to 6.28 percent from 6.22 percent Friday. Using this issue as a gauge, some Treasury securities dealers suggested the new two-year notes to be sold today would yield 6.30 percent to 6.35 percent.

6.35 percent.

For the small investor, this yield is not likely to prove attractive. Two year certificates issued by savings banks currently give an effective yield of 6.81 percent.

Last Friday, Treasury bond dealers generally predicted that the notes to be sold today would be given a 6½ percent interest coupon. Yesterday, that estimate was raised to 6½ percent, a rate that nevertheless would be below the 6½ percent rate set last month on the 6½'s of July.

Auditors Judge Internal Controls?

auditors will soon be h more important watchard against illegal or im-ate activities if a pro-vhich is getting serious Securities and Exchange s imposed.

No happier with the group's latest effort, he noted that the proposed draft on internal controls would "not require" or encourage public reporting."

In Washington, meanwhile, after Senate passage of a bill to require public companies to maintain adequate internal accounting controls, at the behest of the S.E.C., the House will open hearings today on a companion bill. Roderick M. Hills, chairman of the S.E.C. said in an interview that "we will be said in the said i proceed with a rule on internal con-trols even if the House doesn't pass the Outside auditors seem to be apprehensive. Walter Hanson, senior partner of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company, contended that "public reporting on in-ternal controls is meaningless. The real guts of it is what we are telling man-agement about the weaknes of those

Robert Sack, a partner in Touche, Ross & Company, said that "to do what the S.E.C. would like to do would be an expensive proposition."

"If I'm only asked to give my business judgment," said Mr. Sack, "it won't cost much." "But," he adds, "I can't believe that the S.E.C. or the public will accept that. They're going to want much more analysis and detail. That will cost a great deal more."

What would Mr. Burton, if he were still with the S.E.C., like to see? still with the S.E.C. like to see?

Mr. Burton offered two ways to resolve the problem. One might be a statement by a company's auditors that, he stild went something like this: "We have reviawed the internal controls of this company and in our judgment the system is adequate."

The other might include the phrase, "There were no material deficiencies."

Still thinking of the public, Mr. Burton said that what he envisioned was "an evaluation to determine was "an evaluation to determine whether or not there's a significant problem for the investor."

New Bill Would Require Taxpayer Notification

The Internal Revenue Service has been regarded by taxpayers as some-what overreaching in digging into bank records for evidence of mischief, even when it doesn't have very much to go on.
The new tax bill will require that whenever the L.R.S. summons a bank or other third party to provide financial records on a taxpayer, the I.R.S. must also notify the taxpayer-in ad-

In the past, taxpayers were often unaware that their records were being sought until after the I.R.S. bad ob-tained them.

tained them.

The new provision calls for the service to tell the taxpayer what's going on—and grant him the right to take legal action to block release of his records without his permission.

According to one leading tax practitioner, "The taxpayer is entitled to complete privacy and no one should be permitted to snoop unless there's a real reason."

943,000 Delinquents

Found by L.R.S. in '75 Anthony L. Conrad, dismissed last week as chairman of the RCA Corpora-tion, is only the most recent example of persons who failed to file Federal income tax returns. The Internal Revenue Service, which says it does not know exactly how many fail to file, on its own brought in 815,000 delinquent returns in 1972, 932,000 in 1973, 759,000 in 1974 and 943,000 in 1975, the last year for which it has data.

Figures do not include the casual late filer—even those as tardy as two or three months. They cover only those that the I.R.S. itself asked to file.

On the basis of 84 million individual returns in 1975, 943,000 who had to be forced to file would represent about 1 percent of the total.

With your own free-standing insert in the Sunday New York Times.

More and more direct response advertisers are taking this direct, economical, quick route to sales results. Instead of inserting your folder or brochure into an ordinary envelope, put it into one of the most eagerly opened packages your prime prospects get every week: the Sunday New York Times.

When you tell your story to the first-class readers of the Sunday Times, you have your choice of either the full-run, coast-to-coast audience of The Times (4,505,000 readers) or any of eight other partial zones of distribution.

And here's more: You can distribute as few as 50,000 promotion pieces to exactly the areas you want to reach. A new plan to help you pinpoint your promotion to key metropolitan markets.

What plan is best for you? How much can you save? Get all the details about free-standing inserts in the Sunday New York Times. Write or call Ron Moss, manager, Special Advertising

Advertising

Next Move for New York Lottery

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

The next step in the advertising for the Empire Stakes, New York State's new and apparently successful lottery, will be to run newspaper ads showing the number of wincers in various localities and maybe even listing their

"What makes the new lottery excit-Ing is that there are a lot of winners," explained Norman Goluskin, president of Smith/Greenland, which won the lottery account in the early summer.

In November there will be a new game with new advertising to go with it, to be followed by a return to the instant same soing an instant game going on now. "You have to constantly change the game to keep up interest," Mr. Golus-kin noted.

Although newspapers are the lottery's major medium—about 50 of them are used throughout the state the $1.5 million budget for advertising and public relations is also being used in television and radio as well as in subways, huses and transit tempinals.

Newspapers are favored, Mr. Goluksin said, because of their flexibility.

The current advertising is pretty much the campaign the agency suggested when it was seeking the account last June against some pretty heavy-weight competition. It had also sug-gested the name Empire Stakes to appeal to New Yorkers.

Smith/Greenland entered the competition armed with the experience it had gained promoting gasoline station games for Getty and as the agency for the Brandywine Raceway in Delaware. Its people also did a lot of homework to lotteries garagelly, and backed that on lotteries generally and backed that up with reseach into consumer atti-

Leo Greenland, the chairman, and Mr. Goluskin, who made their presentation in Albany, also suggested the line: "Where no one has a better chance than you.

The account was won on July 7 and after a brief pause for jubilation (allowed to all winners) the agency faced the pressure of meeting the client's inflexible timetable.

A logo had to be designed (Herb Libalin did it); a kit with a slew of point-of-sale material had to be prepared and sent to agents by Aug. 23, and an ad to recruit new agents had to be made and placed,

Then came the teaser advertising campaign for the newspapers and the regular print and hroadcasting that had to be ready to go Sept. 7. The agency, and in particular Paul Jervis, the art director, and Marc Shenfield, the copywriter, had a very husy summer.

Of course, it's easier for advertising people to write about winning and losing than it is for most folks.

Sharp Opens Campaign

The Sharp Electronics Corporation, the United States marketing arm of the Japanese manufacturer, is heginning this week the first major consumer advertising campaign for its color television sets, microwave ovens and citizen band radios. By the end of the year it expects to spend $3 million to $4 million. Last year's budget was only about $800,000.

The agency that is taking the company into this wonderful quest for consumer ideotification is Isidore Lefkowitz Elgort, which was assigned the business last spring. At the time they said that Sharp had big plans, but not everyone helieved them.

Almost all national advertising for the three product lines will be in spot television, which will be supported by cooperative advertising in newspapers.

C.B. radios, because of their very na-ture, will also be promoted with radio

The television ads will run in markets where Sharp has the best distribution and the best chance for successful selling. The ovens will get the widest exposure in 62 markets—while the radios and color television sets will each be promoted in about 25 markets.

None of the commercials will try to sell the benefits of the product categories. All will focus on specific con-sumer benefits of the Sharp brands. The overall theme-"Sharp, the one to

An exception to Sharp's reluctance to advertise has been its line of cal-culators, handled by a different agency, Wisser & Sanchez. Count on them.

Thompson Quits RCA

The J. Walter Thompson Company, once RCA's major approxy, yesterday quit its last assignment, the corporate advertising account. It is down to a budget of about $700.000 this year and Thompson noted, "after careful review, it foresaw a limited financial future in continuing to handle the account." account."

account."

The agency had worked for RCA for 18 years. It lost the black and white television set advertising last year and the color sets and Banquet Foods sub-the color sets and Banquet Foods subsidiary this year.

The Thompson move is "absolutely not" related to the tax problems of Anthony L. Conrad, the ousted chairman of RCA, accerding to Don Johnston, president of the agency. The agency's decision was made a comple of weeks ago, and the timing was forced by a desire to give 90 days' notice before the end of the year, Mr. Johnston said.

A Book of Jingles

Have you ever heard of a collection of sheet music entirely devoted to advertising jingles? Would you believe it if you heard it? Well, here it is, "Great Songs of Madison Avenue," edited by Peter Norback, 32 years old, and his brother, Craig, 29.

Within its soft covers are the words to 114 old and new favorites, starting with "Have You Tried Wheaties?" and including Miller's "If You've Got the Time We've Got the Beer," "I Wish I Were an Oscar Mayer Wiener," and Wrigley's "Double Your Pleasure."

The last jingle in the $7.95 book is one used to promote home delivery of

The last jingle in the $7.95 book is one used to promote home delivery of The New York Times. It is introduced with "Now a word from our sponsor . ." A clever way of letting you know that the book, which is coming out Friday, is being published by Quadrangle/The New York Times Company.

Magazine Ads Climb

In August the magazine industry continued to romp happily up the come-hack trail, with member publications of the Publishers Information Bureau recording a 23 percent increase in ad revenues and a 21 percent increase in ad pages compared with August last

It turned out to be the best August in magazine history. Revenues were estimated at $101 million and pages stood at 5,999.

Gillette Reports 'Illegal' Payments Over

The Gillette Company disclosed yes-terday that unidentified "foreign units of the company" had made "certain il-legal or questionable" payments in for-eign countries amounting to $400,000 from 1972 to 1975.

The company, based in Boston, did not identify the foreign countries. The payments were discovered during an investigation by a committee of Gillette directors. According to Gillette, the investigation found that "all or part" of the payments "may have been paid to government officials" in the foreign

The Gillette committee concluded that possible payments to government officials abroad were not "political."
It appeared that most of them had probably been made to facilitate administrative procedures rather than influence political decisions.

Gillette said the internal investigation did not find any illegal political payments made in the United States or in any foreign country. It did not find any questionable payments to United States government officials.

G. E. Research Center Gets a Battery Contract

The General Electric Research and Development Center, Schenectady, N. Y. said it had received a $2.5 million contract from the Electric Power Research Institute to develop a superbattery that could be used by electric utilities for bulk-energy storage.

The institute has provided support for General Electric's battery research project since 1973. According to G.E. the new project is aimed at developing a rechargeable sodium-sulfur storage battery with a potential of five times more storage capacity a pound than a standard lead-acid battery.

Sherwin Sees Peso Charge

The Sherwin Williams Company reported that the floating and effective devaluation of the Mexican peso would result in a currency conversion charge of slightly more than $3 million, or 60 cents a share, against its consoli-dated fiscal 1976 earnings. steel was to have taken effect a considerable time after the announcement -an unusually long 45 days.

The steel industry is enjoying a good year, though hardly a sensational one. Shipments are running some 18 percent above the severely depressed level of 1975, hut customer inventories may have been a bit heavier than steel men believed. There is, moreover, a fairly large amount of idle steelmaking capacity at present.

The aluminum situation is quite dif-ferent. Alcoa executives believe that consumer inventories, on the basis of the latest quarterly survey of 200 major customers, have not been excessive this year and, as one put it, "we have seen no evidence of any great accumulation during the third quarter."

Alcoa executives and other aluminum officials estimate that this year's shipments of aluminum hy the industry will show a gain of some 30 percent over 1975 and come within 5 percent of the 14.7 hillion pounds shipped in the record year, 1973.

While steel mills have been ruuning around 80 percent of capacity recently, Alcoa is already up to 84 percent, and tha rest of the aluminum industry is running around 90 percent. All say the rate is heading higher.

Unlike the steel companies, which are laying off some workers because of the slowness of orders for capital goods, the aluminum companies all assert that they are still recalling workers or hiring

As for 1977, most aluminum executives seem to be in agreement with the tentative estimate of Cornell C. Maier, oresident of Kaiser Aluminum, who said the other day that he helieved that the industry's shipments "should be up somewhere around 10 percent over those of this year." Alcan Aluminum, however, is a little less optimistic, estimating a 5 percent increase in its United States sales next year.

William B. Renner, president of Alcoa, said his company would have virtually all of its basic smelting capacity in use hy the end of the year. The major exception, he said, would be the high-cost facilities in Point Company. Comfort, Texas, which use expensive natural gas as the energy supply for the smelting process. Alcoa's rate is expected to be up round the 90 percent level by the yearend.

"Our major markets appear pretty sound and pretty good, particularly in the transportation and packaging in-dustries," Mr. Renner said, "We are quite satisfied with the way the recovery is going and are optimistic as we look down the road. We haven't seen any turnup in the capital goods market, but that isn't such a major factor for us. Our hig concern now is the degree of change that might come in Washington after the election."

Steel executives are also pleased with their consumer business, espe-cially the tonnages being taken by the automotive industry, t frankly disappointed ov the capital-goods area, w think will not develop a strength until next year.

Steel's recent fiasco front has baffled many of own executives, as well: customers. The latter the ing was wrong, coming the June price increase products and while uncer over a possible strike in

Weather Reports and Forecast

Summary

Rain is expected today throughout the northern half of the Eastern Seaboard: showers and a few thundershowers will develop along the southern half of the coast and in the Gulf States. Skies will be clear to partly cloudy elsewhere. It will be cool from western and oorthern New England through the lake region and most of the Mississippi Valley into the Northern Plains States; cool weather will also occur in Texas. Warm weather will prevail in Florida and the Pacific Northwest, while mild temperatures are forecast for the rest of the country.

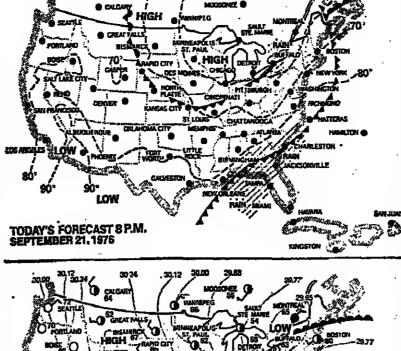

Skies were fair yesterday along immediate coastal areas of the Eastern Sea-board, and also over the eastern and central Gulf States. It was cloudy from eastern edges of the lake region into the Southern Plains States and eastern New Mexico. Showers and thundershowers spread from western New England through the southern half of the Ohio Valley into the lower Mississippi Valley: heavy rainfalls were recorded in western Louisiana and southeastern Texas, while showers and severe thundershowers spread across east-

"There is intense polarization now." be said. "There are those who want totear down all the prisons and those who want to lock everybody up and throw away the key. We have to create public awareness and concern."

"Public opinion is not strong enough right now," he said, "And it will change only if people are convinced that they will be safe, that those who come out of the prisons will be less likely to commit crimes because of programs inside."

Mr. Chinlund, as chairman of the Correction Commission has the power to investigate the entire corrections system. including the areas of parole and probation

The three-member Correction Commission is charged with being the watchdog agency for the entire corrections sysem. It can also make recommendations to the Governor and the State Legislature for changes and alterations in the system and in the Department of Corrections which has the responsibility for running the prison system on a day-to-day basis-Improvements Sought

In addition to calling for the restructur-ing of the parole and probation systems, Mr. Chiniund enumerated other areas within the system that were needed. These included:

¶An adequately financed counseling system. At present, though provisions call "I intend to use the for a one-to-125 counselor-to-convict public concern," he ratio, it "more likely works out to one-to-process will be the pi 200 or 250, which means there really isn't any counseling."

schools, transit and hospitals, which for varying reasons will continue on current district lines.

Most of yesterday's hearing was taken up with the Roosevett Island dispute and with argument over the Mayor's plan to establish two special business districts, one in the lower Manhattan financial area and the other in the midtown shopping area. These would replace the current city funds in next year's budget, which is supposed to cover all its expenses, in-cluding the manager's salary. - Alleged Plot Organizer Released

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 20 (AP)-Charter.

Under the Mayor's plans which would require a Charter amendment by the City Council, the special districts would be administered by boards having a voice in zoning and other land-use decisions. But delivery of services to the business areas would be controlled by adjoining community boards, which would expand into the territory now under jurisdiction of Boards 1 and 5.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 20 (AP)—Robert White, alleged organizer of a plot to kill Senator Edward M. Kennedy, Democrat of Massachusetts, was released from jail today on personal recognizance. Judge George Bregianes decision came after the prosecutor, Eugene Mulcahy, requested a reduction of Mr. White's $25,000 bail. #### TV: Series on Pappy Boyington

'Baa Baa Black Sheep' About Marine Pilot Is on NBC

By JOHN J. O'CONNOR

If this evening's "special two-hour premiere" can be taken as a reliable gauge, "Baa Baa Black Sheep" could turn out to be one of the most objectionable projects of the new seasoo. Based loosely oo the World War II exploits of Marine Corps Maj. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, the series offers a glorification of drinking and brawling

Bloody fistfights and breaking of rules are the behavioral corms. And, with an unfailing instinct for the rat-ings jugular, NBC has seen fit to sched-ule the program for Tuesdays at 8, smack on the target of the so-called "family frour," which is supposed to keep gratuitous violence and sexual material to a minimum.

The techniques of "Baa Baa Black Sheep" are exceedingly devious even for prime-time TV. On one level, stuffed with newsreel clips and a narrator delivering historical data, the series asks to be taken seriously in its porasks to be taken seriously in its pur-trait of a real-life figure. On another, dribbling into tired comedy rootines, it attempts to become a "light-hearted action series about the mis-adveotures" of Pappy Boyingtoo and his squadron of "odd-ball but effective pilots." The mixture simply curdles.

Pappy, played in stereotypical virile monotooes by Robert Conrad, quits Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Flying Tigers ("These valiant Americans leave China...") and returns to the Marines and compat in the Pacific Hustling Acids. combat in the Pacific. Hustling, drink-ing, lying and otherwise being cute, he pots togther a squadron of men who have been court-martialed for assorted nave been court-martialed for assorted offenses. General Moore (Simoo Oakland) is dutifully impressed. Pappy: "With all due respect, sir. The general: "Don't kid me. You haven't got any respect. That'a the one thing I like about ye."

about ya."

The villain of the piece, the butt of jokes and hostility, is one Colonel Lard (Dana Elcar), who is portrayed as an almost psychotic fuddy-duddy as he attempts to keep Pappy and his boys within the rules that presumahly apply to everyone else. But Pappy, with scarce scotch and available nurses, has woo the allegiance of the geoeral, who warns Boyington, "If you don't pile up a hell of a kill record in the next two weeks, you'r all going to wind up back here in the stockade."

Wheo the hoys aren't bloodying one another's noses in fistfights that invariahly seem to end with all participants knocked out, they are rushing off for dates with those nurses, who do a lot of squealing and giggling at the sight of "real" men. Their woman commander is an imposing hutch type who bel-lows lines like, "Ya got that, girls?"

Every ooce in a while, of course, the crew takes off to do battle with the Japanese, providing brief reminders that there was a serious purpose to World War IL The air hattles obviously constitute a damn-the-expense item in the series budget. The enemy is heard speaking Japanese, while subtitles disclose the crucial translations: "They've tricked us, all right. Now we teach them a lesson." Perhaps the entire project should have been done in Japa-nese—with no subtitles.

Notes from TV land: The plugola bombardment taking the form of a net-work using the stars of ooe program as guests oo many of its other pro-grams, reaches numbing proportions this week. The "special appearances" on the comedy/variety shows are bad enough, with performers dragged on for hrief routines and the inevitable mention of their ahows.

But the practice now has reinfected NBC News'a "Today" show, which eased up on such shenanigans in recent years. Yesterday morning, Dick Van Dyke was seen in a pointless interview recorded last week, and several more NBC stars are on tap for in-house advertising. This is the same program that recently announced, with pride, that its anchorman would no longer have to deliver commercials. Only indirectly, it seems.

In last night's production of "La Traviata" on public televison, Beverly Sills prefaced her, performance with a short history of the opera. Among other things, she said that "Traviata" had its premiere in 1852 and that it was oot successful at first.

In fact, the premiere took place in March 1853, and contemporary writers are seriously questioning the story of its initial failure. That "myth" is being traced to certain comments hy Verdi himself, who tended toward pessimism and who was out herood classing subtleand who was oot beyood playing subtle musical politics with his leading sing-

One critic who attended the opening night in Venice recorded that a cheer-ing audience brought on the composer several times for curtain calls. Miss Sills deserves more careful researchers.

You have the option to buy what you want to start your 1977 advertising .as much or as little and for either quarter ...and not have to commit many months before you use what you buy.

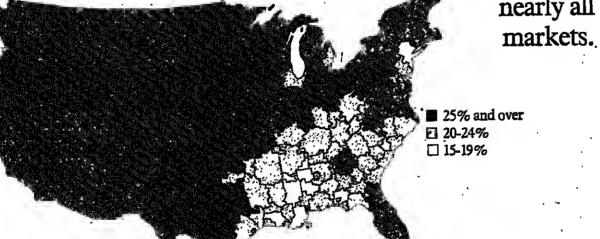

Immediately below, do we describe what you want to start your 1977 advertising? And do we offer a viable option for buying what you want?

Want: Millions of homes.

Option: The Digest guarantees the kind of household coverage television promises. Over 18 million families buy it.

Want: National reach...covering all markets simultaneously and in depth.

Option: This map shows what we guarantee: 25% or more penetration of nearly all

Or maybe you want - regional flexibility. We offer that option, too, as this map shows: Regions of the country...top ten major markets. and (not shown) 50 test markets.

Want: Reasonable, and equally important, assured rates without a restricting longterm commitment.

Option: We assure you now -for the 1st and 2nd quarters of 1977 an open rate of $3.73 per thousand households. Guaranteed. A lov color rate that goes even lower with easy-to-earn disc

Want: A buyer's market ... in which you buy exactly you want, and as much or as little...to appear exactly you need it.

Option: The nature of our inventory gives great var from high visibility "spots" like this:

If the above describes your basic "wants", your op Reader's Digest.

THESE UNIQUE VALUES COME WITH THE OPTION. Believability: The Digest has carped a unique level of trust. Commonly, say with conviction, "I read it in Reader's Digest"-speaking of both and advertisements.

Involvement: Have you ever heard anyone say, "That's a great story, you to send it to CBS"? But you will hear people say, "You ought to send it to R Digest." This involvement spurs responsiveness.

Environment: Everything around your advertising in The Digest puts in a mood to feel good about you.

AND, OF COURSE, THE OPTION SELLS PRODUCT. Example: One of the biggest, smartest, most successful of the new she center super-retailers — the kind that ordinarily use a lot of TV and news -tried a spread in Reader's Digest. They won't reveal what happene they've ordered much more space.

Digest salesmen (who value and serve clients) will glac you more about this option. They will tell you of merch ing support, field support, the kind of help some adve have forgotten that a medium can provide.
